POPE BACKS PEACE BID

ROME, Nov 10 (INS)—Pope Pius XII today placed the full strength and moral authority of the Catholic Church behind the mediation offer of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold.

Moving with a speed dictated by the ominous rush of events in Europe, the Pontiff addressed a collective appeal to the warring nations through his various nuncios, urging all belligerents to give "most serious and sympathetic consideration" to the peace offer.

The Pontiff again declared, in a reception at the Vatican, that the peace, order and international understanding desired by the world "can never be obtained until the rulers of the world renounce the use of force as a means of settling differences between nations."

The Papal nuncios to Berlin, London and Paris were instructed to call upon the leaders of the governments to which they are accredited and stress the Pontiff's deep desire that some means be found of utilizing the offer made by the Dutch Queen and the Belgian King.

(Editor's Note: Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, Papal nuncio to Berlin, called at the Chancellery at noon and was received immediately by Adolf Hitler.)

DUTCH SPEED DEFENSE PLANS

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Nov. 10 (INS)—Fearing possible violation of its neutrality, the Netherlands government sped drastic defense measures today following an incident on the Dutch-German border in which one person was reported killed.

(In London an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam reported Holland would lodge a strong protest with the Reich, should German responsibility for the border incident be established.)

All Dutch military leaves were cancelled after the cabinet at a special emergency meeting decided to adopt strict precautionary measures and prepare for all eventualities.

Requisitioning of automobiles and trucks for troop transportation continued. Railroad traffic was restricted to permit troop movements, but telephone communication with Germany was not interrupted.

The Dutch population, watching the omnious preparations, was highly nervous.

Inundation of various areas of the lowlands got under way as foreign sources claimed heavy units of German mechanized cavalry and huge quantities of military supplies were being concentrated along the Dutch and Belgian frontiers.

(The London Daily Express reported from Amsterdam that Dutch mobilization had reached a peak of 600,000 men, and that

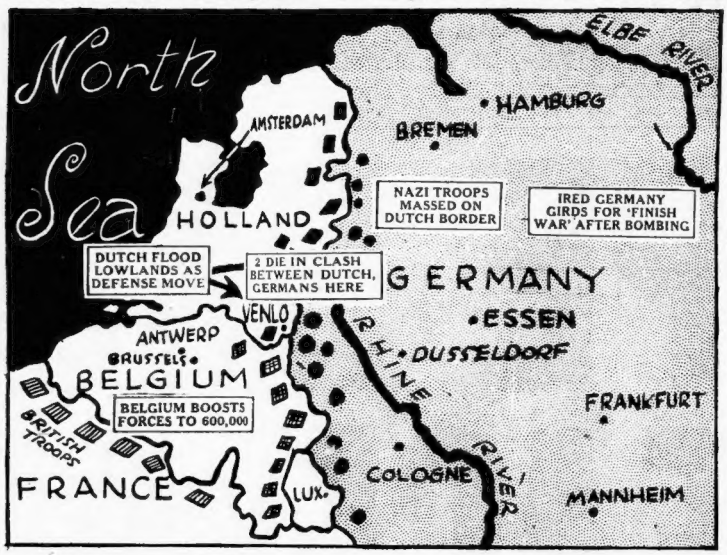
LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Holland has decided to begin flooding its main defenses, fearing that the possibility of a German invasion is great enough to warrant the fullest measures of precaution, it was stated in a Reuter (British) dispatch from Amsterdam today.



LONG-AWAITED move of Germany through the Netherlands seemed in the making today as Nazi troops gathered in force on Dutch border. Munich bombing apparently fired Hitler and nation to end war delay. Holland flooded vital "water line" defenses after a Dutch subject was killed in border clash. Belgium called up reserves, lifting forces to 600,000. British Expeditionary army was lined up on Belgian border, awaiting Nazi "blitzkrieg" toward Maginot Line.

Hitler Photograph Stoned in Berlin; Hunt Bomb Clues

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—A large plate glass window in the store of Heinrich Hoffmann, personal photographer of Adolf Hitler, was smashed today by a missile apparently aimed at a huge picture of the Fuehrer.

Hoffmann returned yesterday from Munich, where he attended the celebration of the 1923 putsch anniversary and narrowly escaped being caught in the blast that wrecked the historic Buergebrau.

Police dug piece by piece through debris nine feet deep searching for telitale fingerprints and metal scraps in the wrecked Nazi shrine and held an undisclosed number of persons, at least on suspicion.

Authorities were convinced that experts set the time bomb intended for Hitler.

POPE'S ENVOY CALLS

Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio in Berlin, visited the Fuehrer, meanwhile, to express the felicitations of Pope Pius XII on his escape.

Officials canvassed the whole nation for information that might lead to the assassins who set off the explosion in which six men and a woman were killed and 63 other persons injured.

Nazi suspicions turned toward the British secret service and Jews, but searchers hunted at home and abroad for clues that might fix the blame for the blast which missed Hitler by only 11 minutes.

Germans who heard a broadcast of Hitler's address at the beer hall celebration of the 1923 Nazi putsch were asked to report any radio listeners who might have commented "Nothing happened," or who asked "Why did the Fuehrer speak so briefly?" He spoke for 58 minutes.

$360,000 IN REWARDS

In addition to a reward of 600,000 marks ($240,000) offered earlier for aid in tracking down the perpetrators, Heinrich Himmler, chief of all Nazi police, offered 300,000 marks ($120,000) to anyone abroad who supplied information leading to the arrest of the guilty person or persons.

Hitler's only comment when he heard of the explosion was "a fellow' has to have luck"—"glueck muss der mensch haben."

After he arrived safely at his chancellery he studied photographs of the wreckage which poured down from the ceiling so deep on the rostrum from which he had spoken that eight hours were needed to clear it away and recover the dead.

DOWN NAZI PLANE IN NORTH SEA

LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—German planes attempted a raid or reconnaissance on the east coast of England today, the British air ministry announced.

One of the raiders was forced down and sank in the North Sea. Another, engaged in combat by British fighting planes, escaped in the clouds.

The crew of the plane that was forced down boarded a collapsible boat and presumably escaped with their lives before the aircraft sank.

Two planes of the Royal Air Force coastal command participated in the combat.

Previously, a German plane, believed to be a powerful Heinkel bomber, flew over the Shetland islands, north of Scotland, on a reconnaissance flight, but was driven off to the southwest by British anti-aircraft fire.

War Diary

70th Day

Behind the Front—An ominous series of events during the past 24 hours indicated to neutral observers that it may not be long before the full fury of modern war is unleashed in Europe.

The principal event, of course, was the reaction to the attempted bomb assassination of Chancellor Hitler and his Nazi hierarchy in the Munich beer cellar. There is every indication that Germany will use this as a rallying cry for a war without mercy against the British, whom they accuse of the attack. The window in the Berlin shop of Heinrich Hoffman, long an associate of Hitler, was smashed and the Fuehrer's picture stoned.

The German press resounded with attacks against British secret agents as perpetrators of the Munich bombing and throughout rang the cry—the British did it—exterminate the British—England is responsible.

Just as ominous in portent was last night's armed clash between German and Dutch frontier guards at Venlo, in which one Hollander was killed and three others were kidnaped from Dutch territory and dragged into the Reich. Meanwhile, Pope Pius instructed his envoys to the belligerent states to contact the different governments and urge them to accept the mediation proffer of the Dutch Queen and Belgiam King.

On the Sea, in the Air—Two German warplanes appeared over the eastern Brtiish coast today and were immediately given batlte by R. A. F. machines. One of the invaders was shot down in the North sea. The other escaped. Previously, a big Nazi bomber was driven off in a reconnaissance flight over Scapa Flow. Allied and foreign investigators today opened a probe in Mexico over reports that secret German radio stations are sending out information as to ship movements.

On the Land—Tension mounted on the Western Front today as Paris reported that 100 Nazi divisions are now concentrated behind the Siegfried line. Heavy concentration of German cavalry and military supplies along the Dutch and Belgian borders gave new rise to the theory that Hitler is planning his big smash on the Maginot line through the neutral territories of the Low Countries.

British Naval Vessel Missing

LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—The naval auxiliary Northern Rover, a vessel of 65 5tons, is considerably overdue "and must be presumed lost," the British admiralty announced today. The personnel's next of kin have been notified.

FREE ON BAIL—Cowboy Lloyd McCrory of Deadwood, S. D., finds solace in the arms of his fiancee, Helina Hovanic, after she and his father succeeded in appeal to reduce $5000 bail to $1000, which was promptly raised, temporarily freeing him. McCrory faces manslaughter charge in the death of Charles Gormlie of Reading, killed in a taproom brawl.

Check O'Hare's Love Life in Death Probe

CHICAGO, Nov. 10—Police delved into the love life of Edward J. O'Hare today in an effort to uncover new clews to the shotgun assassination of the millionaire race track operator.

Investigators previously discarded theiries that a quarrel over money or personal vengeance motivated the killing Wednesday after O'Hare left his offices at Sportsman's Park, which closed a financially successful race meeting last week.

In addition to the inquiry into O'Hare's affairs of heart, they studied his recent activities with agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and reported efforts of remnants of the old Capone mob to muscle back into Sportsman's Park management.

GIRL IS QUIZZED

Miss Sue Granata, sister of State Rep. Peter C. Granata and sweetheart of O'Hare, was found by State's attorney's police early today. She had been missing since the killing.

Police found on O'Hare's body a watch engraved 'Sue-Ed" and the phrase "Love Everlasting" in Latin.

O'Hare had been divorced from his wife, Selma, for seven years. The widow resides in St. Louis.

Miss Granata was hysterical and under a physician's care at the home of a sister when police found her. Lieut. Tom Kelly said she told him she had been "going with" O'Hare for seven years and they were engaged to marry.

CHECK NEW LEADS

She said she last saw him Monday night at a party.

One reason police attached importance to any information Miss Granata might give them was that she once had been O'Hare's secretary and possibly could reveal details of the slain man's far-flung business interests.

Delving into O'Hare's operations, investigators found several leads they considered important.

One was a memorandum carried by O'Hare, which indicated the Federal Bureau of Investigation had asked him for information regarding Clyde Nimerick, alleged Missouri bank robber.

SEEK "FINGER MAN"

Although the FBI refused any comment, police said they had been told by intimates of O'Hare that he had planned to go to Washington yesterday, allegedly to confer with "a government man."

From this development, authorities drew the conclusion O'Hare may have been suspected by the underworld of being an informer and possibly had been killed for that reason.

Dowd Luxury Bill Revealed by Auditor

As forecast exclusively in the Boston Evening American yesterday, John F. Dowd's resignation as sheriff of Suffolk County was announced today.

Almost immediately, it was revealed at City Hall that Dowd has been at loggetheads with City Auditor Charles J. Fox over jail "luxuries," including oranges at $1 a dozen, lamb chops at 60 cents a pound, cocktail tables at $36 a table, rare rugs and other items.

Atty. Francis Juggins, counsel for Dowd, made formal announcement of the resignation after several telephone conversations with the sheriff, who has been a target of the Boston Bar Association for two months.

Juggins said Dowd told him he had signed the document and was to have it delivered to the office of Gov. Saltonstall at the State House within a short time.

Gov. Saltonstall was not in his office, having previously arranged to speak before the students of Mt. Holyoke College at South Hadley.

City Auditor Fox revealed the wrangle with Dowd over payment of bills for "jail supplies" and "jail improvements" which included items ranging from capons at $3 each, olive oil at $1 a bottle, a cocktail table—this was a "jail improvement"—and a costly Persian rug for which the city was billed into the hundreds of dollars.

Off of one bill from a Faneuil Hall market, Auditor Fox deducted $133.23, representing luxuries purchased as "jail supplies" during last March alone, it was revealed.

TASTY JAIL FARE

The list included a bunch of asparagus at $1, five and a half pounds of kidney lamb chops, $3.03; two jars of pickles, 80 cents; two jars of honey, 50 cents; three and three-quarters pounds of bacon, $1.43; three and a half pints of heavy cream, $1.40; an eight and one-half pound capon for $3.83, and jars of meat sauces, salad dressing, and other such "jail necessities."

On one day, Fox disclosed, the sheriff charged tothe city a case of large bottles of ginger ale at $3, and a case of small bottles at $3.35.

Among other items the Sheriff thought the city ought to pay for, Fox said, were walnuts, maple

REVEAL TEACHER IN LOVE CULT QUIZ

MARBLEHEAD, Nov. 10—Miss Helen Eastland, 35, of High st., in this town, today revealed herself to a Boston Evening American reporter as the "woman teacher" whose name had been linked with the strange suicide of Florence Bigelow, 15-year-old junior high school student.

This exclusive revelation came as a new and dramatic highlight in the case that has rocked Marblehead since the young girl's death at her own hand exactly two weeks ago.

"When the time comes to talk, I'll talk," Miss Eastland said today at her home where she lives with her father.

She was absent from classes at the school today on request of Supt. of Schools James W. Vose.

BOARD WAITS REPORT

She was not suspended, but Vose asked her to stay at home until after the meeting of the school committee Monday night.

At that time, according to the committee chairman, Gerry Martin, complete reports will be heard from the committee's own "secret investigator" and fro State Detective Richard Griffin.

At that time Martin said 30 witnesses would be heard. Miss Eastman's case alone would be heard, and if action is taken against her, she will be given a public hearing.

Griffin, attached to the offict of District Attorney Hugh A. Cregg, was assigned to the case yesterday.

"I have told investigators all the circumstances of the case," Miss Eastman said today. "I have talked to Rep. Bell about it."

SEEKS TO CLEAR NAME

State Representative Malcolm L. Bell is a close friend of the family. Miss Eastland would not disclose whether she had hired counsel.

Superintendent Vose said he had consulted with the school committee before he had asked Miss Eastland not to come to classes.

Raymond Phillips, gas station attendant and stepfather of the girl whose death precipitated the storm, revealed that his wife, Florence's mother, has been ill since her daughter's death.

"We don't want to crucify anyone," he said. "We just want to clear Florence's name."

Vose's order to Miss Eastland followed an unscheduled meeting of the school committee, during which Committeeman Allen H. W. Higgins was contacted in Washington by phone.

CREGG READY TO ACT

The order was based on a report by Assistant District Attorney James Roy, drawn from sworn statements made by eight witnesses.

"If there's anything in this case that warrants prosecution, I'll do it," Cregg said.

Letters written by the dead girl and found by her side after her suicide were examined. At least one of the letters was written by the teacher, it was reported. The girl's friends also were questioned.

Miss Eastland has denied all allegations made against her.

Jury to Hear Dulong Case

The Middlesex County grand jury was scheduled today to hear evidence in the case of Catherine T. Dulong, 16, Woburn Junior High School girl, alleged illegal surgery victim, missing nearly three weeks.

On bail on charges in connection with the case are Dr. Ensang W. Cheng, a Chinese physician, of Reading, and Henry J. McCue, 34, Woburn florist.

Easter Is Here! Roll Your Eggs!

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 10 (AP)—Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity members at Emory university took a cue from the Thanksgiving situation and celebrated Easter today—about five months ahead of schedule.

The brethren and their dates arranged an old-fashioned Easter egg hunt, egg-rolling contest and supper dance.

Members said they were following the lead of President Roosevelt, who moved Thanksgiving up a week by proclaiming Nov. 23.

F. D. Hopes to Attend Army-Navy Game

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS)—President Roosevelt announced today that he hopes to attend the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia on December 2.

The President is going to Hyde Park to lay the cornerstone of the "Franklin D. Roosevelt Library" on November 19, and on November 21 he expects to go south to Warm Springs for his proclaimed November 23 Thanksgiving.

1000 Students Hit by Lowell Fire

LOWELL, Nov. 10—Nearly 1000 students were left without quarters today when a general alarm fire swept a wing of the Varnum School, causing damage estimated by police at $20,000.

Hundreds of spectators rushed to the scene as the flames swept the three and one-half story brick structure, atop a hill in the Centreville section. The classrooms and the auditorium were destroyed.

The school houses kindergarten, grammar and junior high school pupils. Authorities indicated the children would be given an enforced vacation of several days.

KATHRYN HILLIARD AND BABY
'He Needs a Home'

MOTHER ASKS HOME FOR BABY

Faced with possible separation from her nine-months old baby, a homeless and friendless girl issued an unique appeal through the Boston Evening American today.

She is Kathryn Hilliard, 21, and she seeks a husband who will give her baby a name. Or she wants a job which will permit her to care for the infant.

She is prepared to make any sacrifices, she said, rather than endure separation from the child.

EMPLOYED BY DOCTOR

Until recently she was employed by a Cambridge doctor and his wife. But they have no further need for her services, and the girl faces a return to Tewksbury infirmary and fears she may be separated from her child.

"If there is some man, somewhere, who wants a girl for a wife I would like to meet him," she said appealingly. "I would make a good housewife and I feel that I am attractive. I am anxious to do anything that would help my baby."

After the baby was born at Tewksbury Infirmary she obtained work with the doctor and his wife at a summer camp. There were not many conveniences for a child there, but she managed to keep him in a bureau drawer until he got too big for that. Then she bought a crib.

LOSES HER JOB

The crib cost $24. Out of her pitiful savings she had paid for it, all but $3. She decided to let that wait and bought some winter clothing for the baby using up all her small store of savings. Then the blow fell. When she returned to the doctor's house it was to be informed that they could no longer employ her.

Now she has been told that she must go back to Tewksbury where work awaits her. That is a last resort, she declares, for that would mean she and the baby would be apart.

Quiz City Collector In Radio War Probe

Merritt Thompson, Boston city collector, got his job from Mayor Tobin through Leland Bickford of the Yankee and Colonial network news services, the collector testified before the Federal Communications Commission at the federal building.

The city collector was recalled to the witness stand today in the radio war in which the Mayflower Broadcasting Corp. seeks a Boston radio license on the frequency now used by John Shepard's station, WAAB.

Testifying in his first appearance before the federal commission, Thompson admitted that he had been looking for a post with the city and was introduced to Mayor Tobin by Bickford.

MOVED INTO BOSTON

Bickford had advised Thompson, the latter said, to move into Boston from Cambridge to get the job, and as a result Thompson moved to Brighton.

Thus far in the hearing on the application for station WAAB's frequency, witnesses have brought out that while other candidates for political office were attacked by Bickford over the radio stations, Tobin came in for laudatory comment.

As today's session of the hearing opened, it was revealed that officers of the Mayflower Broadcasting Corp. are listed as George R. Dunham of Cambridge, president; John J. McCann, Lowell, treasurer, and Lawrence J. Flynn, Boston, clerk of the corporation.

At the opening session, former Gov. Charles F. Hurley testified that threats of reprisal by radio stations WNAC and WAAB were made by Bickford to Hurley.

ACCUSES BICKFORD

One of a dozen prominent personages summoned, former Gov. Hurley said Bickford told him the Yankee and Colonial Network stations (WAAB and WNAC are the key stations) would lose money if he signed a bill regulating dentists and dental advertising.

When Hurley said he intended signing the bill, thus making it law, Bickford snapped back, according to the ex-governor, that he had "political influence" and that his radio stations were "a forceful political weapon," and if Hurley signed the bill he would "hear from me."

Subsequently Hurley was attacked in speeches by Bickford over the stations, it was brought out at the hearing, although Hurley himself said he never listened to Bickford.

"I paid no attention to him," said Hurley. "He was making me a political issue. I received fair treatment from all the stations except WNAC and WAAB."

A phonographic record of a speech made by Bickford, was introduced.

The purported radio address, sponsored by the Tobin campaign committee in the 1937 mayoralty fight, was a scathing arraignment of three other candidates—former Gov. James M. Curley, former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley.

It ended with a plea for the election of Maurice J. Tobin and a request to "stand with me and help us drive these gangs out of Boston."

Former Cong. Richard M. Russell of Cambridge testified that Bickford made a radio speech for him when he was a candidate for governor. Russell said he did not write the speech Bickford delivered. He could not recall trying to interest anyone in Washington to obtain a permanent radio license for Station WAAB, then operating under a temporary license.

Resume Trial Of Patrolman

The trial of Patrolman Joseph F. Allen, accused of conspiring with two others to rob a Huntington ave. restaurant, was resumed in Suffolk superior court today with the suspended patrolman on record with a complete denial.

Allen heard Paul A. Petzold, former Boston patrolman and his one-time companion in a Boston police cruiser, testify for the state and declare that Allen told him how a safe might be burglarized in a Howard Johnson restaurant on Allen's beat.

"We had a red hot row," Allen declared when he took the stand. "Twenty minutes later I reported to Sergt. Wyand and I told him that Petzold said he was going to clip the restaurant. He told me to watch the place."

"What was your reaction to Petzold's proposal?" Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle asked Allen.

"My reaction was that I thought I was using him to get information from and he used me for a sucker."

Wife-Swappers Plan Appeal

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP) — Two men and a woman planned appeals today from convictions of bigamy in a rural wife-swapping deal in which mates were traded temporarily before divorces were obtained.

A jury yesterday convicted Will D. Johnson, 36; Odell Brand, 32, and Della Brand, 29. Annie Fay Johnson, 29, pleaded guilty as the trial opened and testified for the state.

Bigamy was committed, the state contended, when the four exchanged mates and remarried a few hours after the women received divorce decrees prohibiting remarriage within 60 days.

Seek 19 Youths For Air Corps

Unusual opportunities await nineteen youths in and around Boston for service with the United States Army Air Corps.

The vacancies in the flying service must be filled immediately, according to army officials.

RUNAWAY IMPERILS SCORES

Snowing a burst of speed that would have put Challedon to shame, a runaway junk wagon horse today raced through a maze of tangled traffice in the busiest sections of Brookline and Allston, endangering the lives of scores of school children.

The animal, hired from a South End stable by Benjamin Factor, Carlisle st., Roxbury, bolted near Coolidge Corner, and raced down Harvard st., with Patrolman Gordon McMorrow pursuing in a commandeered car.

At Commonwealth ave. he clattered through a red light, narrowly missing collision with fast moving automobiles on the busy thoroughfare, and at Harvard and Brighton aves. he again threaded his way through the counter stream of traffic.

While pedestrians ducked for cover, and automobile drivers wrenched their machine out of his way, the panicky horse swept up Cambridge st., tore around the traffic circle in Union sq., Allston, and at last tired as he neared Everett st.

There McMorrow was able to leap from the running board of his pursuit machine, and bring the horse to a halt, after a chase of nearly two miles.

7 COUNCIL RECOUNTS; COMMITTEE WINS O. K.

Announcement by seven defeated candidates that they will seek recounts of the city councilor votes in their wards was accompanied today by indications there will be no recount in the school committee tabulations.

In Newton the recount demanded by Mayor Childs will formally begin tonight at 6 o'clock. However, the election commission announced that 50 misplaced votes in the preliminary check were found to favor Rep. Paul M. Goddard, who already stands as victor, with a plurality of 90. The recovered votes were sealed in a vault at City Hall, guarded by supporters of the two candidates.

City councilor recounts in Boston are sought in Wards 8 and 11, Roxbury; in Ward 14, Dorchester, and in Ward 3, West End.

There were 190,970 ballots cast, with 111,039 blanks in the school committee election, which saw 22 seeking three places. The high number of blanks indicated a wave of "bullet" voting. The official figures showed.

Clement A. Norton, 84,003; Joseph C. White, 65,096; Daniel J. McDevitt, 47,150; Patrick J. Foley 43,358.

Women candidates finished fifth, seventh and ninth, as follows: Mrs. Hattie H. Smith, 26,791; Miss Annie M. Niland, 21,991; Miss Josephine H. Lally, 18,538.

Among candidates who took out recount petitions were Laurence J. Haley, who finished last in the Ward 3 council fight, getting a total of 165 votes. John I. Fitzgerald, who showed third, had previously taken out petitions.

As George F. McMahon, defeated city councilor, filed necessary signatures for a recount of his successful opponent, William H. Hurley took out papers.

Leo Walsh, of Plummer st., South Boston, doubted the vote on James H. Sheldon, who got 5080 to finish 18th in the school committee fight, and filed for a recount.

Six Families Flee Blaze in South End

Six families were forced to flee from a Tremont st., South End, apartment house as smoke from a burning furniture store poured into their homes today.

Flames damaged the store and broke into an adjoining plumbing shop, in Pembroke st.

In Brighton, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Saliop of Lothian rd. were warned of a fire in their apartment when the barking of their fox terrier "Peggy," awakened them. Twenty persons fled.

SEES NEW TAX CUT FOR STATE

The state debt will be reduced by nearly one-half in the next two years, Gov. Saltonstall predicted today.

Estimating that the Commonwealth would pay off $18,319,000 in this period, the Chief Executive declared in a radio address:

"The steady climb of state expenditures has been stopped for the first time in ten years, and the 1940 budget will be even lower than this year."

His speech, "The plus, or sunny side of Beacon Hill," emphasized that "business in Massachusetts is definitely coming back. The enterprise of our industrial workers, general conditions—all are factors in this recovery. But the state itself has contributed heavily."

The governor also stated that every tax bill "in this commonwealth is on an average $2 less per $1000 than it would have been were it not for the efforts of my administration."

Jailed Over Watered Gas

ATHOL, Nov. 10—The story of how an alleged gasoline thief was captured through a ruse in which water was substituted for gas, was told in district court here, when Elmer E. Bevis, Jr., 17, son of a local WPA worker, was sentenced to Concord Reformatory.

Since Oct. 25 the George H. Webster Sole Co., has noted the loss of gasoline from its private supply on Chestnut st., but Police Chief William J. Callahan was unable to catch the thief in the act.

When some 125 gallons had been stolen, the chief had the gasoline tank emptied and re-filled with water. Bevis was arrested as he pushed his stalled automobile into a service station to have eight gallons of water drained from his gasoline tank. Judge George R. Warfield found him guilty of larceny.

Injured in Fall On El Stairway

Michael F. O'Reilly, 30, of Alther rd., Roxbury, was found lying unconscious on a stairway landing at Forest Hills Elevated terminal today, apparently the victim of a 22-foot fall.

He was removed to City Hospital, where he was reported in a critical condition with a fractured skull.

Why Gobs Go For Rowboats

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Now we know why sailors go for those rowboats on the park lakes. It's about the only place they can sail American.

Panama is getting all our boats and may sail them the same way they make those hats.

Repeal of the embargo hasn't helped anybody and spoiled a good debate.

$250,000 N. H. FIRE FELLS 7

BERLIN, N. H., Nov. 10—Seven firemen were overcome today battling a spectacular fire which threatened the entire business district and destroyed a three-story brick block, causing damage estimated at $250,000.

Ten persons fled from the Joliet Social Club in the top floor as fire broke out in the basement and quickly enveloped the building.

Firemen battled the fire in sub-freezing temperatures. Flames imperilled the City Hall and post office directly across the street.

A police squad was rushed to the scene to restrain hundreds of spectators who threatened to break through the fire lines.

Water freezing in the streets added to the difficulties of crumbling walls as firemen fought for more than two hours before bringing the blaze under control. The Gorham fire department was summoned on the sounding of a general alarm.

The block is owned by Carl Morin. Tenants include the J. C. Penny Company, the Economy Clothing Company, Emma's Candy Shop, Jewel's Tailor Shop, Henri's Beauty Parlor, an insurance company and the Joliet Social Club.

Fire Chief James LePaige said the fire apparently started in a boiler room under a row of stores.

Only Rochester makes 'em like this!

LOOK in a jeweler's window and try to distinguish between a piece of cut glass and a diamond. Unless you're an expert, it's tough. Overcoats are like that, too! Any tailor can make a coat look good. A hot iron is all it takes. But such "surface style" doesn't last long. It's the needlework underneath that counts. And when it's Rochester needlework, you don't need an expert to tell you it's the real McCoy. Every Rochester craftsman is a specialist who brings absolute perfection to his work. And every overcoat in Bond's enormous selection comes from the hands of these Rochester specialists! That's a statement we believe no other clothier in town can make. And here's another! Bond is also the only retail clothier who owns a tailoring plant in Rochester — which explains Bond's low prices. This year, when you pick your new overcoat, make it a good one — the Rochester tailored kind! It's a luxury you can easily afford, at Bond's.

Roosevelt Planning Aid to Idle Seamen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that transfer of eight United States line vessels to foreign registry would be legal, but that the question of whether to permit it still was being studied from a human as well as a property angle.

Discussing at his press conference the situation created for the nation's north Atlantic sea lines as a result of shipping restrictions of the neutrality act, Mr Roosevelt also reported that he would recommend to Congress that seamen thrown out of work be placed under the social security program to receive old age pensions and unemployment insurance benefits.

PAID WHILE TRAINING

Insisting that a transfer of the U. S. Line ships to Panamanian registry would be legal, the President, however, said other questions were bing discussed to benefit not only the laid up crews but the ships themselves.

He said he would discuss with Maritime Labor leaders the prospects of working out with the Maritime Commission a project to give training under commissioned officers to officers and seamen thrown out of work. They would be paid by the government during such training.

Mr. Roosevelt said he also was considering use of the 25 to 35 American flagships taken out of the north Atlantic trade in fetching materials the government is purchasing under a $10,000,000 appropriation for a reserve of strategic war supplies.

CARRY BRITISH GOODS

In this connection he referred to the agreement with Great Britain to exchange American cotton for British rubber and tin. American ships, now idle, may be used to bring the rubber and tin back from the East Indies while the British ships carry American cotton back to the British Isles.

The President emphasized that both ships and men in North Atlantic trade were being laid up as a result of an act by Congress. The seamen would be on the beach, he said, whether American ships were transferred to foreign registry or taken off routes to the war zone as a result of the neutrality act.

All Butt Won in Race For Council

It cost John J. "Cigars" Connors of Ward 5, Back Bay, exactly 24 cents to wage and lose his campaign for election to the city council, a painstakingly itemized campaign expense account disclosed.

Connors, according to a statement of expenses filed at the city clerk's office in accordance with the law, bought three campaign cigars at a total cost of five cents.

For the same modest sum of five cents he bought, respectively, a razor, a beer, and five lollipops. Accounted for, but not explained, were one stamp, one cent, and one yeast cake, three cents.

U. S. LAYS MINES ON COAST

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., Nov. 10 (AP). The army is laying mines off the coasts.

They are submarine mines, put away for the possible rainy day of attempted invasion by a foreign fleet. Each contains 200 pounds of TNT and can be fired electrically from an observation post.

The mines, many of which are already [illegible] are capable of being placed or removed from planted fields in a short period. It is a slow process, however, and can be done only in daylight.

Goes to Hollywood for Runaway Son

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10—Vincenzo Meli, Lawrence contractor, was on his way to Hollywood today to bring back his wandering son Anthony, 16, found in the coast city masquerading as a girl.

The contractor learned of his son's whereabouts from a chum of the youth who had received a letter recounting his experiences on the transcontinental journey. Police were notified and the boy, missing since early on the morning of Oct. 31, was found.

He was registered in a Hollywood hotel as Susan di Cola and was wearing a blue satin lounging gown, his hair permanently waved.

The boy had only $195 left of $1000 which the father reported missing at the time Anthony left, according to police.

In his letter to the chum, after leaving home, Anthony went to Boston, where he bought a complete feminine outfit, including a blonde wig. Then he took a transcontinental airliner to the coast. The wig was later discarded.

"Anyway," said Anthony when taken to the Hollywood police station, according to a dispatch, "I got to see a few movie stars."

The youth is five feet six inches tall, weighs 175 pounds and has smooth, ruddy skin girlish features and light brown hair.

DOWD'S LUXURY BILL REVEALED BY AUDITOR

syrup, a 14 pound ham, olives, expensive cheeses, four pounds of steak at $3 and six pounds of roast beef, bought on the same day, for $3.

LUXURY IN JAIL

On another day, a bill arrived for a dozen oranges at $1, and two and a half pounds of halibut at $1.25.

But it was in the realm of jail improvements that the bills really mounted up according to Fox.

Almost immediately after assuming office, Dowd found it necessary to improve the jail with a Karabah rug costing $240, one bill revealed. At the same time, he bought a sofa and an arm chair which cost the city $115.

OTHER COSTLY FURNITURE

He had been in office several months before he discovered that a cocktail table was a needed "jail improvement," it was declared. The cocktail table cost $26, and to go with it, the Sheriff purchased two Persian rugs for $192 a footrest for $18.75, and another footrest for $21.75.

Other articles of furniture, including a studio couch a picture, a mirror, a table, and a stool for a total of $132.35; a "mahogany arm chair in plum", $49.50; a "maple sofa in grey", $95.50; a prima vera night table, a maple arm chair, a maple butterfly table, a $25 lamp and shade, a $78 maple chest, and an $18.50 maple coffee table.

Listed as another "jail improvement" was an item of $585 for painting the sheriff's Charles st. house, adjoining the jail. This was paid to William Wright of Round Hill rd., Jamaica Plain.

For supplying curtains and rods for the sheriff's home, Ernest H. Stevens of South st., was paid $368.48, and L. W. McNaught of Greenville st., Roxbury, got $896.44 for refinishing old floors and laying new ones in the same building.

Dishes for the sheriff's home cost $715.51, and wall paper nicked the city for $72.

The city also paid $25 for a gold and crystal floor lamp, and added $5 for a gold silk shade, and $12.50 for a lace shade.

Even the sheriff's personal telephone was fairly expensive, as private telephones go, according to Auditor Fox. For last August the city got a bill for $8.75 over and above the ordinary charge for service, representing, among others, a dozen calls to Falmouth, and seven to Marshfield, as well as calls to other points on the Cape.

BAR BLASTS DOWD

Word of the sheriff's resignation brought a scornful blast from Judge Frederic H. Chase, president of the Bar Association, who declared.

"The act speaks for itself and requires no further comment.

"When Mr. Dowd was informed of the investigation by the Bar Association, he issued a statement to the press that this was not an investigation, but a political frameup.

"The Bar Association, through its counsel, Ruben L. Lurie and Lothrop Withington, was prepared to present its evidence to the full court on Nov. 13. Many of its witnesses had been subpoenaed.

"Instead of facing the evidence then, Sheriff Dowd chooses to resign now."

GRAND JURY MAY ACT

Judge Chase announced plans for a conference between Dist. Atty. William J. Foley and the powerful council of the bar association, at which the district attorney will seek evidence to lay before the grand jury, probably in the latter part of next week.

Germans Decline Nobel Awards

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (INS) — Two German scientists today declined awards of Nobel prizes in chemistry totaling $60,000 on the basis of the 1937 law prohibiting Germans from accepting Nobel awards.

Prof. Adolphe Butenandt of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute turned down a $20,000 award, and Prof. Richard Kuhn of Heidelberg rejected a $40,000 prize.

Chancellor Hitler banned Nobel prizes for Germans when the late Carl von Ossietsky was awarded a Nobel peace prize while in a German concentration camp.

10 DIE IN MINE

TOKYO, Nov. 10 (AP)—Ten persons were reported killed and 215 imprisoned 800 feet underground today in the collapse of a sulphur mine shaft at Morioka in northeastern Japan. About 100 escaped.

'Youthstown' For Lowell

LOWELL, Nov. 10—Lowell is to have a "Youthstown," an organization similar to the famous "Boystown," with a membership of boys between 8 and 17. Police Supt. Michael H. Winn, its organizer said the object would be to curb juvenile delinquency.

"Youthstown" will have a mayor, city council, school committee, police and fire chiefs, judges and other officials. An organization meeting will be held Nov. 18 and the club will hold its first election Dec. 1.

END SELZNICK STRIKE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10 (AP)—A strike of I. A. T. S. E. employes at Selznick International Studio has ended. The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, which governs 12,000 studio workers, announced a dispute over a pay increase had been settled "under the only terms to which we would agree."

ALLIES TELL WHY THEY DELAY WAR

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY AT FRONT, SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Nov. 10—This war is not a "phoney war" and nobody can go with the French army and think that it is.

It is not even at all certain that the inactivity which has puzzled the outside world and led many Americans to believe the combatants were "pulling their punches" will continue until spring, as many observers had become convinced.

Or, the contrary, if a few more days of good weather persist, there is a good chance that Hitler may launch an offensive which will make war on the Western Front as real as at any time during the bloodiest period of the 1st war and put to shame the sideline critics abroad who have begun to jeer as Europe warily approached her death struggle.

ALLIED ARMY SUPERIOR

When and if he does launch his attack, Hitler's men are going to find themselves eagerly met by an army superior to theirs in men, morale and materials.

This is my impression on the first day and night of our second and this time "permanent" visit to the French Army, to whom a small group of American correspondents has now become accredited "for the duration."

Here, "somewhere in France," in the headquarters of one of the senior officers of the French army we listened to an explanation which for the first time made clear some of the characteristics of this war.

We were surrounded with the blackness of a blackout which made even London seem brilliantly lighted by comparison. Our host was a man who controls the destiny of millions.

There have been two weeks of rain, which have made any kind of battle impossible, but we now have Indian summer.

"A little more sun could dry the ground enough to make any kind of fighting possible," the officer said.

WHY ALLIES WAITED

I asked why the Allies had not attacked at the beginning of the war when Germany was tied up in Poland, especially whey the Allies had not tried to divert some German airplanes from the unfortunate Poles by attacking German military positions on this side.

In his answer was contained the whole thesis of the overwhelming importance of the air arm in modern war.

"The Germans know how important this is," he said, "and you will note how they are now conserving their forces since their catastrophic failures in bombing the British fleet, especially at Scapa Flow. They lost 50 per cent of their squadrons in these attacks, and no air force can stand that.

"A ir fighting, more than any other kind, depends upon morale. My regiment of infantry in the last war could lose 50 per cent and hang on, take re-inforcements and within a couple of weks be all right again. The air force can't do that. That is the reason the Germans had to quit."

NOVICE GERMAN FLIERS

Illustrating the effect of morale in air fighting, he revealed that in the recent sensational French victory in which nine French planes attacked 27 German planes and brought down nine without any loss, the French craft were attached to the famous "LaFayette Esquadrille," which is a continuation of the old American LaFayette squadron, retaining all its traditions and trophies.

This action, he said, demonstrated the moral superiority of the French over the German fliers.

German anti-aircraft gunnery, he said, was excellent.

3RD GERMAN WAR LAST?

The officer paid high praise to the American-made Curtiss planes used by the French.

"When a Curtiss plane goes into a flight," he said, "it proves itself superior to the German Messerschmidt."

Queustioned about the Siegfried Line being incomplete, he said:

"It makes no difference. Without mastery or equality in the air, it is impossible to make war effectively.

"But the thing to remember is this: My father served in 1870 against the Germans. I served in 1914 and our sons are serving now. But this time we shall never let this thing be repeated. This time we are determining to go on fighting until Europe can be assured for as far as one can see into the future against another one of these interminable and intolerable assaults by Germany."

Young Guggenheim Found Shot to Death in N. Y. Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—George Denver Guggenheim, 32, of 146 Central Park West, son of Simon Guggenheim, philanthropist, mine millionaire and once U. S. Senator from Colorado, was found dead of a bullet wound in the head in a room at the Paramount Hotel, "apparently a suicide," according to police. A heavy hunting rifle lay under his body.

He had registered at the hotel on Wednesday afternoon, giving the name of Herbert Hildebrand of 143 Sutter st., San Francisco. He had no baggage, but apparently carried the rifle up to the room with him.

He was identified by Clarence Osborne, his secretary. Louis S Levy, of the law firm of Stanchfield & Levy, said he was certain that Guggenheim had not slain himself, describing the death as an "accident."

WARNS U. S. AGAINST PART IN WAR

Hysteria leading to American participation in the European war would cost this country all the gains realized in 150 years of democracy, Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing Company, predicted in a fervent plea for American neutrality.

Addressing social and political leaders at a dinner sponsored by the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, the publisher emphasized that American business does not want war as it would produce "dictatorship."

"The more the people are forced to concentrate attention on our form of government, the more they will realize the importance of our economy and the strength that lies in our institutions of business.

"America's future does not lie in war. European quarrels are none of our business and we cannot hope to preserve the peace of Europe," he declared.

Dutch Fear Hitler Armistice Day Coup

—By J. E. OESTREICHER—

International News Foreign Editor

Shivering with apprehension, Holland unleashed the waters today and flooded large areas along her frontier, fearful that Hitler may seek to turn Nov. 11 in Germany from a day of mourning into a day of victory.

For tomorrow is the 21st anniversary of the Armistice which ended the last World War, a day that in the allied countries and the United States had been dedicated until this year to heartfelt tribute to those who died gloriously in battle.

But in Germany, the date has been virtually expunged from the calendar. It has been since 1918 a day of shame and mourning in the Reich, on which Germans have kept their eyes to the ground, hating the victorious Allies and the fate which impelled their general staff to sign away the Fatherland's birthright in a railway car on a siding near a suddenly-silenced battlefield.

GUNS AND BOMBS

Thirty-six hours and more have passed since Hitler, a little while before a time-bomb almost eliminated him and the entire leadership of the Nazi regime, announced in the Buergerbraukeller:

"We will now talk to England in the only language England understands."

Guns and bombs, obviously. But as yet nothing has happened, and the tension increases by the minute.

Nazi Germany officially blames British propaganda for the nervousness in Holland and Belgium and ignores as beneath contempt the charge that Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold made their mediation offer under terrific German pressure.

It must be admitted that propagandists are exceedingly active on both sides. A few days ago, Europe and the world were startled to hear that Gen. Johannes von Blaskowitz had been sent to the Western Front to take command of the German column opposite Holland's Limbourg province.

THREATENING NEWS

This report sent shvers down many a Dutch, Belgian and British spine. For Von Blaskowitz was the man who cracked the defenses of Warsaw after a 21-day seige that has no parallel in modern history and who personally dictated the terms of peace that divided Poland between Germany and Russia.

Now, however, it appears he is in Cracow, Poland, carrying out his military duties. At least this is what the German high command declares.

There seems to be little doubt, however, that Belgium and Holland are worried in the extreme, and Great Britain made clear today she would not stand idly by if their frontiers were invaded.

It is not impossible that the bloody Munich bombinb may have convinced Germany it is advisable to take stock of affairs at home before starting out upon an irrevocable course of armed action abroad.

This presupposes the theory, of course, that the assassination plot was hatched as a purely domestic affair in the Reich.

Allied insinuations continue that the outrage was a frameup to give a disheartened Germany a rallying point. But the possibility is not being overlooked that some persons high in the Nazi regime, convinced war is the poorest solution of Germany's manifold problems, may have tried by this one stroke to turn the course of history.

BRITISH HINT AID TO INVADED LANDS

LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Great Britain always has held an "historic interest in the low countries and cannot regard unconcernedly anything which might affect their sovereignty."

With the German press calling for a war of extermination against Great Britain following the Munich beer hall bomb explosion, informed circles in London said they believed the German blow may prove "extremely savage" if and when it is struck.

Authoritative quarters agreed that reported concentrations of German forces along the Dutch frontier and other signs might conceivably be part of a huge German "bluff."

Dutch Speed Defense Plans on German Border

large military detachments were reported en route to the German border.

(In Copenhagen the newspaper Politiken said the Dutch government requisitioned all means of transportation, and that the situation of Holland was considered "very grave.")

EVACUATE TOWNS

Dutch technicians supervised evacuation of towns and villages preparatory to flooding areas of the defensive zone known as Holland's "water line."

Preparations were made to evacuate children and aged persons to places of safety. Authorities said the nation's defenses were fully manned.

Government offices hummed with activity and the government was described as "ready for the worst," although "expecting the best."

The border incident, reported to have developed into an armed clash between German officials and Netherlands near the frontier city of Venloo, was fully discussed by the Dutch cabinet at a meeting that lasted far into the morning.

According to reports reaching Amsterdam, the incident developed when a German automobile approached the frontier, crossing the German barrier. At the same moment a Dutch car drew up at the Netherlands barrier.

Then the occupants of the German car moved forward and a group of German customs officials, uniformed and armed, crossed the border, ordering Netherlanders in a frontier cafe away from the windows. Shooting ensued, and it was reported that one Netherlander was killed. Several others were said to have been taken forcibly into Germany.

DUTCH PROBE CLASH

Dutch authorities began an immediate investigation to assemble all the facts.

Early this morning the cabinet issued this statement on the shooting affray:

"Last night shooting occurred on the frontier near Bierik. Several civilians were involved. It appears that one was hit while others were abducted into Germany.

"The facts are not yet established as witnesses are contradictory, but the inquiry is continuing and will make the position clearer."

Britain Hints Armed Aid to Low Countries

LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Great Britain always has held an "historic interest in the low countries and cannot regard unconcernedly anything which might affect their sovereignty."

This was the clear-cut statement of authoritative circles today in connection with the rising tension in Belgium and the Netherlands and the grave fears both countries face a German invasion.

It was emphasized, however, that Britain has no understanding with Holland, and no diplomatic consultations of any sort between Britain and the Netherlands are under way.

The British from the beginning have spoken of the possibility of an onslaught by Hitler against the Netherlands, with the object of seizing channel ports for submarine and air bases, placing Germany's striking forces near to London.

German protestations of innocence in this regard are treated with skepticism.

France Ready to Rush Aid to Netherlands

PARIS, Nov. 10 (INS)—Possibility France may go to the aid of Holland, if necessary, by way of Belgium came to the front today as Premier Daladier's cabinet met for two and a half hours.

It was learned the Holland situation and the intensive Dutch defense preparations were discussed. The question of aiding Holland by way of Belgium, it was learned, was carefully studied.

Authoritative circles said indications of a German attack are daily becoming more obvious.

French quarters also charged the increasing number of German flights over Belgian territory violated Belgian neutrality.

On the Western Front, meanwhile, there was great activity among land and air patrols, but little actual combat save in the air.

French military authorities estimate Germany now has 100 divisions on the Western Front, approximately 1,250,000 men.

A French general said a "big blow" is possible on the Western Front and that French armies were braced for any eventuality.

For three weeks storms have drenched the countryside, swelling streams and flooding valleys, but now there is Indian summer.

Say Nazi Raiders Get Mexico Tips

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—Reports that secret German radio stations are sending information on ship movements from the deep interior of Mexico to sea raiders were under investigation today by allied and neutral foreign intelligence agents.

According to these recurrent rumors, the transmitters operate on powerful, high frequencies that can carry important naval intelligence to ships far at sea in the Atlantic or Pacific.

One foreign operative displayed a sheaf of reports from staff observers in various sections of the republic charging that hidden stations were at work. But out of the mass of reports, he said, agents had not gleaned enough clues to determine the location of any station.

Irish Prisoners Now 27 Days on Hunger Strike

DUBLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Premier Eamon de Valera said today four Irish Republican army hunger strikers were "in imminent danger of death."

De Valera said he had decided between the lesser of two evils, to let the striking members of the outlawed organization die rather than endanger the safety of the country.

He said the government had released one man after a hunger strike of 31 days, but that the next day six more began fasting.

For three of the men, who have refused food since Oct. 15, this is the 27th day of their strike. The fourth began a week later.

Britain at Mercy Of Nazis in Holland

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE

U. S. MARINE CORPS RETIRED

Written Especially for International News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Military opinion which has consistently discounted the probability of any large-scale offensive on the western front is veering to the conviction that the Nazis mean business in their present threat to Holland.

ACTUALLY beneath sea level is this Holland trench, only a few feet from the ocean. Dutch have flooded area they expect Germans to invade in case of Nazi conquest.

For more than a month this action has been urged by the powerful German aviation corps, headed by Field Marshal Goering, and increasing indications seem to show his advice is about to be accepted.

The advantages to Hitler's war staff of taking over Wilhelmina's little North Sea kingdom are obvious. What has restrained the Nazis heretofore is the effect of such action on world opinion. In the last World War, German violation of Belgium helped to consolidate neutral opinion against the Kaiser's Reich and ultimately to bring the United States into the struggle.

READY TO RAID ENGLAND

If the German army moves into Holland it will do so to assure better bombing bases for unlimited air war against Britain. Reports in aviation circles here are to the effect that the German air staff has compiled figures and statistics to prove such a war launched from air fields on the Dutch coast would have more than double the chance of success of one from present German bases.

The reason for this is that these Dutch ports lie at about half the distance from Britain's vital areas to present German air bases. From Cuxhaven and Wilhelmshaven to London is about 400 miles. From Amsterdam and The Hague to the British metropolis is less than half that distance. From present German air bases to England's great midland industrial area, Birmingham - Manchester - Liverpool is roughly 500 miles. From the Dutch ports it is not much more than 250.

WAVES OF BOMBERS

Furthermore, the routes of bombing flights from Germany against England lie predominantly over sea while those from Holland would be seldom out of sight of land.

Raiding from German bases on a moderately intensive scale would cost the Nazis about 2000 tons of gasoline more a day than raids on a similar scale conducted from the Netherlands' coast. Such an air war would be waged by launching waves of medium bombers, with not fewer than 500 to the wave, timed to arrive at somewhere near an hour apart and including probably about six waves, or a total of 3000 ships.

Gas for an attack by one such wave of 500 planes from The Hague would figure out at about 150 tons! From Cuxhaven to London the same number of planes would burn 300 tons of gas.

Six waves of planes making two trips each would run the total gas required for raids from Germany against London up to nearly 4000 tons, while the same raiding could be accomplished from Holland with half that amount.

German Freighter To Run Gauntlet

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 10 (AP)—The German freighter Lahn, which Chilean officials had hoped to buy with six other Nazi ships for a projected private shipping monopoly, ran the risk of an ocean voyage today with Hamburg as its announced destination.

The British cruiser Achilles has been reported patrolling the coast of Chile.

The Lahn, a 7000-ton vessel, sailed suddenly from Talcahuano yesterday after loading a cargo of coal and food from the German ship Frankfurt, which also had taken refuge in that port.

Soviet Russia Glad Hitler Not Killed

MOSCOW, Nov. 10 (AP)—Russia's foreign office told the German ambassador today Russia received with joy news of Adolf Hitler's escape from the Munich attempt on his life and regretted the casualties caused by the bombing. The press printed long extracts from German newspapers charging British agents with the attempt.

FRENCH MAY BUY 5 HUB FISHING BOATS

Five ships of the Boston fishing fleet will become French mine sweepers if the United States Maritime Commission permits their owners to sell the craft to the French Line.

The vessels are the steam trawlers Brant, Loon, Penguin, Plover and Coot, owned by the Portsmouth Trawling Co., a subsidiary of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corporation, originally built for the French government in 1919 to be used as minesweepers.

The Brant, Loon, Penguin and Plover are tied up at the Atlantic Works, East Boston, and the Coot is on its way in from the fishing grounds to await the decision of the maritime commission, already embarrassed by protests over the proposal to shift eight ships of the United States Lines to Panama registry.

An official of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries admitted that French interests were negotiating for the five trawlers, but declared that the sale had not been completed. He said it was reasonable to assume that the French government was behind the proposals. The Stanley J. Osborne, vice-president of the Fisheries concern said the corporation had received 25 offers for the five trawlers since the European war began.

BELGIAN ENVOYS GO TO BERLIN

By WILLIAM PARKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10 (INS)—Relations between Nazi Germany and Belgium took an unexpected turn today when it was learned that two members of the Belgian ministry of foreign affairs would arrive in Berlin tomorrow "for economic negotiations."

The prospective mission became known at a moment when Belgium and the Netherlands were swept by fears of a possible German invasion and all preparations were completed for immediate evacuation of this country by British nationals.

A Belgian government spokesman, discussing the mission to Berlin, stated that "political problems" would not have any place in the discussions.

Information in Brussels said that the two Belgian under-secretaries would be guests at a state banquet in Berlin tomorrow night.

At the same time, it was confirmed in official British circles that notices had been printed for distribution to all British residents in Belgium, including newspaper correspondents, notifying them to be prepared for immediate evacuation.

The pamphlets have not yet been distributed, however.

A spokesman for the British embassy said:

"I believe that any embassy would act similarly considering the situation."

No details of the Belgian mission to Berlin could be learned immediately.

War Briefs

THE HAGUE, Nov. 10 (INS)—All police leaves were suspended throughout The Netherlands this afternoon as an added defense measure.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—German sources expressed belief today that Germany would withhold her answer to the mediation offer of the Belgian and Netherlands sovereigns, King Leopold and Queen Wilhelmina, until Great Britain and France have responded.

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Sir Neville Henderson, last British ambassador to Germany, addressing the London Press Club today, said: "We must end the war in such a way that the only grievance the Germans have shall be against their own rulers, against their leader and the system that brought them again to defeat."

ANKARA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Turkey commemorated today the first anniversary of the death of President Kamal Ataturk with five minutes of silence at the hour of his death. John V. A. MacMurray, United States ambassador, placed a wreath on his tomb.

BERNE, Nov. 10 (INS)—The Swiss Federal Council today decided to recall to the colors two territorial battalions recently demobilized. In addition, men between the ages of 20 and 40 hitherto exempted from military service were ordered to submit to new medical examinations.

PARIS, Nov. 10 (INS)—The German general staff has prepared extensive field headquarters at a point a few miles northeast of Cochem on the Moselle river, the Paris Soir reported today. Heavily reinforced concrete subterranean chambers have been constructed and an aerial fleet of five transports, 18 reconnaissance planes and 15 pursuit ships assigned to the spot.

LAUNCH JAP DESTROYER

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Nov. 10 (AP)—The destroyer Tokitsukaze was launched today, but details of construction and armament were not announced.

PEACE IS VETERANS' ARMISTICE DAY GOAL

With Peace for America the theme of Armistice Day observances, for the first time in many years members of all World War veterans' organizations will participate in the parade.

The Armistice Eve celebration will be under auspices of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion. Mayor Tobin will be the principal speaker.

To be honored tonight at Hotel Lenox, as war heroes whose deeds were "above and beyond the line of duty" are Edward E. Ayotte of Providence; Walter J. Boardman of Manchester, N. H.; Leon E. Ellsworth of Jefferson, Vt.; Albert W. Herman of Norwalk, Ct.; Paul H. Hines of Boston and William E. Southard of Bangor, Me.

There also will be Armistice Eve observances in several Boston synagogues. Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill issued a call for the observance of Armistice Day as one of prayer for the peace of the world in all Episcopal churches.

1200 AT MASS MEETING

More than 1200 persons representing all races and creeds paraded to Brookline High School Auditorium and heard Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders express hopes the meeting would be a harbinger of a more kindly spirit of brotherhood in America.

THE SKY RAIDERS

by Paul Whelton

Staff Writer and World War Flyer

SWIFTLY THE WORD traveled through the aviation ranks of the French and British, and with the word came consternation.

Roland Garros had been brought down and his invention captured by the execrable Huns, the invention that already had begun to give the Allies supremacy in the air.

Now, personally but involuntarily, of course, Roland Garros the veteran had presented his invention to the Boche.

The word seeped through that he had been killed or wounded when he had either been shot down or had landed a crippled machine behind the German lines and had been unable to set fire to the plane.

It was the severest individual blow to France since the start of the war. On that machine was Roland Garros' own invention which enabled a machine gun to fire through the blades of a whirring propeller.

As the name Blériot was in England, the names Wright and Curtiss and Beachey in the United States, the name Nesteroff in Russia—so was the name of Roland Garros celebrated in France as aviation toddled around, barely out of its swaddling clothes, in the decade before the World War.

To add to his fame, in addition to being a fighting war pilot, Garros had just given the greatest single contribution to aviation thus far in the great conflict.

Within 18 days before his mishap on April 19, 1915, Garros had shot down five startled Boche who had come in confidently toward his nose—the safest spot for attack heretofore only to be blasted incredulously by lead coming through the propeller blades.

In the first days of war flying, August, 1914, the more cautious pilots carried along a revolver, later adding to this startling armament a musket or a carbine.

Under military orders, French pilots also carried, for a few weeks, a bag of bricks, which they were instructed to hurl at enemy machines in hope of breaking their propellers.

THE fixed machine gun—mounted on the top of the center section and firing above the propeller by use of a string dangling from the trigger made its first appearance at the turn of 1914 to 1915 the French Nieuport being first to carry it.

A month later, the inventive Garros had successfully completed his synchronized gun firing from a fixed position on the engine hood and with all except 7 per cent of the bullets cleanly clearing the propeller blades as the lead whistled through the interstices.

To protect the blades as they were struck by this stubborn 7 per cent, Garros placed steel strips on the propeller edges where the bullets hit, and thus the slugs were deflected.

Then on April 19, 1915, the first ace of the war—although no official count was then being taken—Garros vanished near Courtrai after he had dropped bombs on a freight train loaded with German supplies.

For days his fate was unknown. Germany refusing to give out any news regarding him. Then gradually it came out that Garros was a prisoner at Magdeburg, where he had been subjected to many indignities in retaliation for the damage he had inflicted on Boche depots and stores through his many lone bombing raids.

The story of his mishap came out also. Following his usual procedure the famed aviator, who had done exhibition and competition flying for years before the war in America and Europe, cut his motor some 12,000 feet above Courtrai and coasted down on his objective, the freight train.

Ground guns fired at him, but Garros disdained them. With amazing coolness he descended until within 100 feet of the ground, dropped his bombs squarely, watched their effect, then switched on the motor again.

But to his dismay it did not catch. Never had that happened before.

Frantically he switched on and off, but there was no reassuring cough from the engine. He worked the controls, endeavoring to glide out into open country, away from the enemy concentrated below.

It was no use. Dropping through the curtain of lead, the Frenchman finally had to set his machine down in a field, not far from the Boche camp.

He attempted to set fire to the machine, which carried his precious synchronization device. Failing, he raced to a ditch and dived in, hoping to escape the rapidly approaching Huns, and his capture if they found him.

Find him they did, and when they inspected the machine they discovered also the synchronized gun.

Just 10 weeks later German artisans had so developed Garros' invention that the Boche were equipping the new Fokker planes with completely synchronized guns which, except for accidents to the mechanism, fired bullets all of which missed the whirring blades of the air-screw.

GERMANY now, for a time, had the advantage of the allied flyers, and it was with these deadly Fokkers that Max Immelmann and Oswald Boelke were so successful in the air during ensuing months.

Garros was 26 years old when the World War started. For nearly a decade before that he had been building airplanes and flying them. In nearly all the early air meets he competed and was a leader.

He shared the awards of the European air circuit with Pegoud (second to do the then hair-raising "loop the loop" after the Russian, Capt. Nesteroff, in 1913), with Brindejone de Moulinais, with Moissant and with Beaumont.

In Germany when the war broke in 1914, Garros slipped over the border to Switzerland, made his way to Paris and then enlisted in his country's air service.

At first the aviation work consisted solely of carrying messages, dropping bombs and propaganda literature on enemy camps and observation work. Opposing pilots waved hands in friendly fashion as they passed.

Then one day—on Aug. 15, 1914—a French pilot named Gerain was blasted out of the air by a German cannon.

A few days later, probably not in the way of retaliation but for the devilry of it and because he had a bag of such missiles with him under orders, a French pilot threw a brick into the propeller of a Boche machine and the German, hastily cutting his wildly racing motor, descended.

Still primitive was the early aerial warfare on Sept. 8, when Russia's Capt. Nesteroff and Austria's Baron Rosenthal sighted each other over the Russian front, the Austrian loaded with bombs.

Nesteroff had no arms or munitions not even bricks—aboard, but he had a Russian mind. With high courage and in deliberate suicide he yanked his throttle on full and sailed into the incredulous and consternated Austrian.

In a tangle of wood, wire and fabric, the two men fell to their death—but all to what purpose it is difficult to understand.

NOT until Oct. 5, 1914, was a machine brought down in an actual air duel outside the suicide category.

A Sergeant Franz and his mechanic-observer, one Quenault, were up in a French biplace over their lines when a German Voisin two-seater lumbered across into French territory.

At about 4500 feet altitude the Frenchmen attacked the German, with Quenault firing a machine gun from his gunner's cockpit. The Boche hastily dived under the French flyers and banked for the north and a run home.

Sergeant Franz and his gunner cut off the Voisin, however, and from a superior height Quenault again peppered the Germans. Still aiming for home, the Voisin circled for altitude—no acrobatics in those early days and straightened out above the Frenchmen.

The German gunner fired, but again the French machine gained altitude and again Quenault rained in shot. Down went the nose of the Voisin and it began to spiral.

From above 3000 feet the German plunged, straight down into a marsh edging a pond beside a corpse of woods. One of the Boche was flung headlong out of the machine, a split second before it took fire. The other, if he had not already died, perished in the flames.

Only two days after the exploit of Franz and Quenault, two other French flyers, Pilot-Sergeant Gaubert and Capt. Blaise, the gunner, sneaked up on a Boche two-seater between Metz and Verdun.

At an altitude of 7000 feet, the French Maurice Farman machine rode above and only 75 feet behind the Boche. Capt. Blaise, to use a pun, blazed away at the Germans with a rifle. The German observer riding with a Lieut. Finger, as pilot, returned the fire with a revolver.

Capt. Blaise reloaded, aimed and fired the rifle again. Once more the revolver barked. Eight times in all the rifle spoke and finally the Boche pilot, Finger, drooped as if in weariness over his stick.

Out of control, the German machine crashed to the ground behind its own lines. Two days later Finger died of bullet wounds suffered in the air. Despite the crash, the Boche gunner was only slightly injured and recovered.

Thus air fighting was born and progressed in those early days, but gunners were hampered by the necessity for wielding loose machine guns when they did use them, with marksmanship a matter of luck.

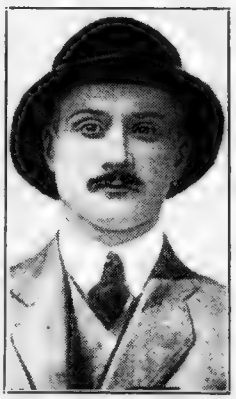
WORLD WAR AVIATION—In such blimps and flimsy planes as these, the Allies fought the Entente during the World War . . . a picture of a bustling aviation field, somewhere in Belgium.



ROLAND GARROS
Pioneer of Flying

COUPLED with this was the added weight of a second man in the machine, baggage which cut down on the plane's maneuverability.

If only some way could be devised to enable a pilot to fly and operate a gun at the same time, doing away with the necessity of carrying a gunner! That was what Roland Garros had pondered, and he had finally set to work on his device—with the result that he evolved a method for shooting through the propeller which was 93 per cent efficient.

So finally Garros had installed his invention and, while other allied machines were being similarly equipped, he had the ill luck to present his achievement personally to the Boche.

From the prison at Magdeburg, Garros was transferred to Cologne and a prison stockade, but so close a supervision did the Germans keep over this famous French flyer who had caused them so much grief—seemingly the present of the synchronizing device should have compensated for this—that they compelled him to sign the prison register every half hour while he was not actually locked up.

This sort of thing went on for 33 long, weary months, during which Garros was joined, among others, by France's Lieut. Marchal, captured at the end of the longest flight ever made up to that time over German territory by an enemy, 750 miles.

Lieut. Marchal had flown from his lines to Berlin, where he dropped propaganda leaflets, but his fuel had given out within 50 miles of the Russian border and he had been compelled to descend.

Meanwhile, Germany was using the synchronized guns, the captured Boche planes had speedily reverted the perfected device back to the Allies and Garros was all for snaking his way out of this German war-goal and returning to the fray.

Lieut. Marchal joined him in plotting, but not until January of 1918 were they able, through bribery and other means, to effect their escape.

Both Garros and Barchal went back into the flying service, but to the sorrow of all France, the gallant Roland was shot down just two weeks before the Armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, at the age of 30.

Most of those first flyers for France passed into the Valhalla, Pegoud, Pourpe, Dorme, the madcap Jean Navarre, and many more, but one there was whose unquenchable spirit and amazing vitality carried him through combats, falls, imprisonment, horrific treatment in dungeons, the hardships of an escaped prisoner—and then more combats.

ARMAND PINSARD, who had stood on that first flying field with Garros, Gilbert, Pourpe and de Beauchamp after the war's start, had won his first decoration in 1905 during the Morocco Campaign, when he was only 18.

He became a French army pilot in May, 1912, transferring from the cavalry, where he was an officer. And his method of learning to fly he demonstrated immediately upon his arrival at training school at Chateau Fort—to the horror of the instructors who were too late to stop him.

The quick, nervous cavalry officer merely stepped into the machine after the motor had been started, took off—and not badly—barely missed some trees, yawed wildly away from their tops, circled around in a series of skids and then landed without a crash.

This flying! Pouf! It was simple.

Armand Pinsard, never at that time, nor later, was known to crash a machine in a routine landing, and he rapidly passed through the stages of flying Borels and advanced to the speedier Morane Parasol, with which he won the Military Medal at the Grand Maneuvers in 1913.

From the night of Aug. 2, 1914, Sergeant-Major Pinsard flew in the war without an incident of event, until a morning in November when he had been promoted to lieutenant for a feat of bombing Thielt, where Kaiser Wilhelm was visiting German headquarters.

On this morning in November, Pinsard and a Capt. Chaulin left in a biplane for a reconnaissance flight over the lines. At a point several miles behind the German front, Pinsard's motor gave a few introductory coughs and then ceased to function.

There being nothing else to do, Armand and his passenger came to earth in a field, expecting momentarily to see the Boche burst from cover and surround them. Nothing happened.

Eagerly the two men set to work on the machine, endeavoring to locate the cause of the trouble. Pinsard found it, and while he labored, the alert Capt. Chaulin stood prepared to set a torch to the machine should the enemy appear.

Then, as Pinsard was completing the repairs, Chaulin shouted that some Uhlans were hastriding for the spot. Dropping the torch the captain wound up the propeller. Pinsard leaped to his seat and slapped the switch on; Chaulin pulled down the screw and the motor caught.

With Pinsard in his shirt-sleeves and with Chaulin swinging aboard in like dishabille, the machine moved forward toward the horsemen who were firing from the tangle of frightened horses, plunging and rearing at sight of this enormous bird roaring toward them.

SO close that his wheels nearly scraped the heads of the Uhlans directly underneath, Pinsard lifted the machine off the ground and was away, bullets from the Uhlans' carbines tearing through the wings but doing the flyers no damage.

Not so fortunate was Armand

AT KUHN TRIAL—James Wheeler-Hill, secretary of the New York American-Nazi Bund, leaves the larceny trial of Fritz Kuhn, bund head, with his wife.

BLUE RIBBON JURY HEARS KUHN CASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—A blue-ribbon jury of bankers and businessmen today began trying portly Fritz Kuhn, onetime machine gunner in the Kaiser's army, on charges of stealing $5641 from the German-American Bund.

Kuhn, national leader of the Bund, a pro-Nazi organization, smiled with satisfaction yesterday as Judge James Garrett Wallace sharply and repeatedly warned prospective jurors issues of race or political belief had no place in the trial.

Judge Wallace promptly excused one venireman who said he could "not stand Adolf Hitler," and rebuked him thus:

"We will take it for granted you don't like a hair on Hitler's head. But that is not the point. If it is shown that the defendant has been guilty only of un-American activities, he can walk right out of that door a free man."

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, calling the Kuhn case "routine," turned it over to his assistants for trial. A Bund newspaper earlier had contended Dewey was "persecuting Fritz Kuhn and Americans of German blood" in a bid for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Kuhn, who was born in Munich, is being tried on 10 counts of a 12-count indictment charging him with grand larceny, second degree grand larceny and third degree forgery.

The two severed counts, on which he may be tried later, accuse him of the theft of $8907 in Bund funds. He is thus charged with stealing altogether more than $14,000 from the organization he has dominated since 1935.

Possibility arose that Rep. Martin Dies (D.) of Texas, chairman of the House committee investigating un-American activities, would be called as a prosecution witness.

War Hero Asks Big U. S. Army

Special to Boston Eve'g American

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—To be safe, America must have an armed force "of a size and efficiency that will effectively stop interference by any power in the world," Major Paul C. Raborg, World War hero, declared in a pre-Armistice Day radio address here.

"And," he added, "we must have compulsory military training."

Major Raborg spoke over a national broadcasting company network under the auspices of the National Security League.

"Much has appeared on preparedness, but largely on manpower and machine needs," Maj. Raberg said. "Little has been said about making the soldier, the most important factor of all. Tools are no good without the skilled workman and a soldier cannot be made overnight. He must be trained."

Murders Wife, Takes Own Life

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—A 43-year-old Indianapolis trucker killed his wife and himself with a 38-calibre revolver in front of his house because, Detective Sergeant Donald Bushong said, she had objected to his drinking.

Bushong identified the victims as Clark H. Kelley and Justina Kelley, 48. He said Kelley's daughter-in-law Mrs. Margaret Mays, 31, was wounded in the shoulder.

Indict New Bedford Boy in Shooting

FALL RIVER, Nov. 10—The Bristol County grand jury has indicted Alfred Auclair, 17, of New Bedford, on charges of assault with intent to murder William Beauregard, 52, of Fall River, who was shot last September by a man who attempted to steal his automobile.

Hub Trio Continues Fraud Charge Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Defense attorneys today continued their battle in federal court to vindicate three Boston men of charges of mail fraud and conspiracy.

Thomas W. Morris, an attorney, testified in his own behalf following six days of testimony in behalf of Stephen Paine, investment banker. The third Boston defendant is S. Leo Solomont, attorney.

Entire N. H. Village To Be Transplanted

HILL, N. H., Nov. 10—Citizens are preparing to transplant the entire village of Hill to a new site, with streets and houses laid out as a model community. This was voted at a special town meeting to consider the town's future, the result of government plans to construct a huge flood-control dam and reservoir here.

Old George's Story

By Charles J. McGuirk

EVERYBODY in town heard old George's story some time or other because he told it to at least one person every day for years and years. He always told it the same way, in the same place and with the same gestures, never varying.

Anybody who ever heard it had to accompany him to a rubbish heap on a hillside on his 150-acre farm because there is where happened the events he described. The heap was a big one. It had been catching the farm's excretions for a century and it was full of tin cans, old rags, ashes, bones and discarded farm implements, broken shovels, hoes, rakes, picks and even a ploughshare.

"Did I ever tell you about Johnny and Prince and the big rat?" he would ask. "I didn't? Well, come along and I'll show you just what occurred. It was 41—no, it was 42 years ago because it was the year before Johnny died and he would have been 50, if he'd lived. He was my son, you know. My only son.

"Well, sir, Johnny had a dog. Prince ,his name was. He was a mixture of fox terrier and bull and I don't know what all. I found him one day in that cornfield yonder. He could just crawl. I took him to the house with me. I was always glad I did, because Johnny loved him.

"You know how a boy is about a dog. Johnny thought Prince was the best that ever lived. And he wanted everybody else to think so, too. He was always telling you just how sassy Prince was, how brave and how knowing.

"When Prince began to get some size on him, I'd ask Johnny about him, just to get him started. I'd ask him if Prince could kill a rat and he'll tell me that Prince could kill the biggest rat that ever lived. 'As big as that,' he'd say, and spread his little arms to their widest.

THE TEST!

"It sounded pretty reasonable. What's more natural than for a dog to kill a rat? So when I caught a big one in a cage trap in the barn one day I carried him out and called Johnny. 'Johnny,' I said, 'you sure Prince will kill a rat?' And Johnny said, 'Sure he'll kill a rat. Quick as look at him.' I said, 'All right. Here's a big one. Let's see what he'll do.'

"Johnny's eyes got as big as saucers when he saw the rat in the cage. He turned to Prince and he said, 'There's a rat. Get him, Boy!' And Prince went crazy. He leaped at the cage and growled and yelped. He like to tear the thing out of my hand.

"So I said, 'All right, then. Come on up to the rubbish heap.' And we did. I took my stand right on this spot. And so did Johnny, and so did Prince. By this time Prince was fit to be tied, what with snarling and scratching at the trap. 'Let me at him!' he was yelping in dog language.

"Taking it slow and easy, I opened up the trap and the rat jumped out. Prince made one dive at him. And the rat made one dive at Prince. And Prince turned and kloodled away, yelping and with his tail between his legs, just as hard as he could tear.

"Well, sir, I never laughed so hard in my life. I just looked at Johnny and roared. I couldn't help it. His little face was such a picture of disappointment. Something else happened here, too. What was it? Something. Darn it, it's right on the tip of my mind."

The Principal Character In "Old George's Story"

OLD GEORGE, an eccentric character who once was prosperous and happy with his wife and son, but since their death George faces the loss of his farm, and life on the poor farm.

And then old George's eyes would go vague and he'd stare into the distance and back to the rubbish heap. "Something." Then he would come back to the present and the story. "Well, anyhow," he'd conclude, "Johnny never mentioned about Prince being such a great rat killer again. He died the next year. Johnny was a fine little fellow. You remember him, don't you?"

Old George was 86. There was a time in his life and in the life of our town when he was the biggest man in it. He was one of the strongest men in the county in his youth.

He married a Harrison, Mary, her name was. She was the daughter of old Ase Harrison. The Harrisons owned the Harrison Acres. They bought them from the Indians for a couple of barrels of rum and some calico. You'll know from that how old the family was. They came to our town when it was a wilderness, down from New England with the rest of the Foundling Fathers. Around 1660.

Well, old Ase was pretty mad when Mary married George. He thought George wasn't good enough for her. But George was good enough for any one. He never truckled to old Ase so when Ase died, he cut Mary off in his will. Didn't leave her a straw tick.

As far as anybody could see, it never bothered George. He worked and he saved. He was a hired man, but in ten years he bought the property on which he still lived. There was a hundred acres of it, good fallow land, lying on both hill and in the valley.

He and Mary had been on it five years when Johnny was born, because Johnny didn't come along until they had been married 13 years. And no other babies followed Johnny. Mary wasn't well, ever. She was always just about able to drag herself around. George spent half his time nursing her and half the time making things grow on the farm and half his time pleasuring in his son, Johnny.

Well, that's a little bit too much time, isn't it. A half too much. But, anyway, he and Johnny got along fine. They were much closer than father and son. They were as close as twin brothers. Along about the time Johnny died of an attack of scarlet fever.

ALL ALONE

After Johnny died, the sweetness pretty well went out of the lives of both George and Mary. George worked to get away from the memory of Johnny. He didn't do that very well.

Mary, she failed too, although she lived for years. People around said that she lived just to talk about Johnny to George and to listen to what he said about him. When she went away, finally, she left George all alone. He had neither kith nor kin.

After she went, old George gave up caring about anything. He began to get a little mixed in his mind. Along about last spring, Simeon Sassey, the richest man in town, got to craving old George's hundred-acre farm for a very good reason. In the years, the town had spread out and encircled it and Sim knew it would be worth a lot of money if it was cut up into nice building lots and made into an exclusive residential subdivision. And when Sim wanted anything, he usually got it.

Sim snooped around and found out that old George hadn't been paying his taxes and the bill now amounted to a pretty large sum. He rubbed his hands together in glee. He knew now he could buy the farm for peanuts at a tax sale. So he set the authorities on old George.

George was real grieved. He didn't have the money to pay the taxes. He hadn't had any money in he didn't know when. He furrowed his brows and squinted his eyes and tried to think when it was he last had money. He just couldn't remember, although he thought it must have been a little while before Mary died. No, it must have been after because he remembered paying all the funeral expenses. He remembered that then he didn't owe a soul. He remembered feeling pretty good about that.

The tax officials felt real sorry for him. They didn't want to sell him up because everybody loved him. They even went into his house and ransacked it while he looked on. They hoped to find enough money stuck away somewhere to pay his taxes and save his homestead. But they didn't find a nickel. So then they knew they would not only have to oust him but they also would have to take him out to the poor farm because he had become a public charge.

"Prince turned and kloodled away, yelping and with his tail between his legs, just as hard as he could tear."

Old George didn't understand at first. But when he learned he would have to leave forever the house in which he had lived all his life and loved Mary and fathered little Johnny, he took on something terrible.

The authorities went away and talked it over and figured out a way to take him so that he would hardly realize it. Tim Emory, the Poor Master, and two policemen in plain clothes came for him in a nice car.

By that time Old George had forgotten that he was to be evicted. He thought he was going for a nice ride in the country. So he put on his best black suit and a white shirt and was very grateful.

"This is real kind of you," he told them, "but before we go, I want to tell you a story about Johnny and Prince and the big rat. Johnny was my son, you know, and Prince was his dog. It all happened up on that rubbish heap. Come on up there with me and I'll show you what occurred."

GEORGE REMEMBERS

So they all walked up with him and when they arrived at the top, he stood on exactly the same spot and told his story as he always did. And he ended up with, "Well, sir, I just looked at Johnny and roared laughing. I couldn't help it. He looked so disappointed. Something else happened here too. Let's see. What was it? It's right here on the tip of my mind." He stared into the distance and then his eyes came back to the heap. He looked down between his feet and his eyes suddenly widened. "I know!"

He yelled and grabbed an old broken pick-head and started digging frantically at the spot where he had stood. It wasn't more than two minutes before he uncovered a rusty old tin box. It was heavy. He pulled it out and pried the lid off with the pick head. The box was crammed full of coins and bills.

"This is what I never could remember," he told the three men as he ran his hand through the coins. "I buried this money here when Mary died. Right after I'd paid for her funeral expenses. Then I forgot all about it. What were you gentlemen saying about me owing a tax bill? I'll pay it now, of course."

Old George is still living on the old place. He receives plenty of visitors because everybody loves the old man. But he never goes near the rubbish heap any more and he never tells the story about Johnny and Prince and the big rat.

When anybody asks him about them, just to get him started, he stares vaguely at them. "Johnny?" he'll say. "I had a son named Johnny. He died when he was eight. He was a nice little fellow. You remember him, don't you?"

THE END.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Friday, Nov. 10

Fortune in store—but not necessarily in the name of money, although you are very likely to acquire, through one source or another, a certain amount of wealth.

Good fortune—particularly likely through fame in a profession or occupation in which assistance to the public is the chief concern. Spiritual development—important. You have capable hands and a fine mind; are innately serious-minded and reserved. Remember, happiness comes through the soul.

Send 15 cents and large self addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston American, Box 1215, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the second six months of 1939, giving the day and month you were born.

NEW HAMPSHIRE, completing 20 years of intensive campaigning against tuberculosis, announces an impressive reduction in deaths attributed to this disease.

In 1920, two years after the adoption of a state-wide educational and preventive program, the mortality rate was 96.8 per 100,000 population. Today it is 29.0, lowest in New England and seventh lowest in the nation.

Thousands, their curiosity aroused by this achievement in saving and prolonging human lives, will ask: "HOW WAS IT ACCOMPLISHED?"

The answer is that New Hampshire has taught its citizenship to regard tuberculosis as CURABLE, to recognize its FIRST symptoms and to seek IMMEDIATE and EFFECTIVE treatment.

That explains why a total of 5787 men, women and children visited examining clinics in 54 cities and towns during the past year voluntarily to end or to confirm whatever suspicions they entertained concerning the presence of the disease in their bodies.

It also explains why 2587 other persons who have suffered from the malady are now able to consider their cases "arrested."

The annual cost of tuberculosis in the United States is tremendous. Its 630,000 victims lose more than $300,000,000 in wages and spend at least $150,000,000 for treatment.

And, because of the too general tendency to postpone diagnosis until infection has reached an advanced stage, a large amount of this money is wasted.

There is of course nothing new or radical in the New Hampshire program. Such famous men as Honore de Balzac, William Cullen Bryant, President U. S. Grant, John Paul Jones, Napoleon Bonapart and George Washington were tuberculosis sufferers.

But they wisely conquered fear, sought the best care the knowledge of their periods afforded and thus lengthened their span of years.

New Hampshire properly emphasizes this important evidence and says:

"What others have done, you can and should do."

ENCOURAGING NEWS, the kind everyone in this section of the country wants to read, comes from General Manager Roy R. Williams of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

"Industry is moving back to New England, not away from it," Mr. Williams tells us. "The period of recovery we are now enjoying did not begin with the declaration of hostilities abroad. It began long before that.

"Actually, it began in the research laboratories. It came with diversification of industry and development of new products with ready markets."

Facts support Mr. Williams' optimism. Industrial activity in our six States is substantially above the estimated normal.

Without exception, our many localities announce hopeful increases in the sales of electrical energy, in employment, in payrolls, in orders and in freight car loadings.

Among the brightest spots are Lawrence, where textile mills are operating on a three-shift schedule, and Worcester, where toolmakers report a shortage of 500 skilled machinists.

Not without reason have government orders been placed with 525 New England plants.

Our better climate, superior natural resources, more highly skilled labor and an innate spirit of enterprise combine to produce the efficiency that is the keystone of national strength.

"FACE FACTS!" is the intelligent warning of Herbert C. Parsons, of the Massachusetts Child Council, who says that half the inmates of State Prison are persons who were recognized as juvenile delinquents at an early age.

We should face facts and, if we do, we shall find that 28 per cent of the robbers and 34 per cent of the burglars in Charlestown cells are "graduates" of the Lyman or Shirley schools.

And if we look further, we shall also find that 152 of the 332 persons committed to State Prison last year had been previously convicted before they were 17 years of age.

Obviously, as Mr. Parsons concludes, there IS something drastically wrong with the handling of the delinquency problem in this Commonwealth.

The Kitten Speaks

YES, I admit that I have claws . . . (for every rose must have its thorn) . . . not to embellish or adorn . . . or decorate my cushioned paws . . . but, as in all my interviews . . . I stress, they're strictly made for use . . . To scratch with?—Yes, but you'll agree . . . they help when one's chased up a tree.

At all events, it can't be said . . . I ever paint them ox-blood red.

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

WITH PAGEANT and fiesta, Santa Fe celebrates the memories and romance of the old wagon-trail over which, when the West was young, men, oxen and horses plodded from the Missouri River, over the great central plain and mountains dim with mystery, to that little Spanish city, and entered as joyfully as the crusaders passed through the gates of Jerusalem.

Old men sit in the shade of the plaza these Autumn days, and the blood stirs in their ancient pulse.

They again hear the rumble, the complaining axles of heavy wagons; the shrill cries of the drivers, the war-whoops of raiding Comanches.

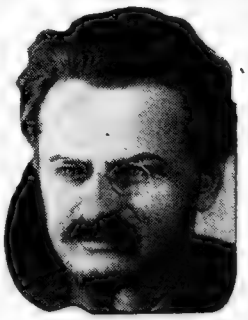
To their ears comes a gay clamor as dusk falls on the old Spanish city, and as the twinkling feet and clicking castanets of the senoritas keep time to the rhythmic beat and song of guitars.

But alas! Of those old days only dreams and memories are left.

SIMILARLY, down in Mexico City, a broken man lives in his memories and his inextinguishable hatreds and predicts that the United States will be drawn into the European conflict and that Stalin will not go to war.

Leon Trotsky, exile, branded as the Number One Public Enemy of Soviet Russia, forecasts a revolution if Stalin enters the fight against the Allies.

What a strange career this burned-out meteor of revolution has had! I knew him here in New York when he lived with his wife and two children in a walk-up flat in the Bronx.



LEON TROTSKY
Commentator Knew Him

A flat with two hundred dollars worth of installment plan furniture, and Loeb Bronstein, which is his real name, sputtering at the capitalists—for fifteen dollars a week in the Russian language newspapers down on the lower East Side.

I have heard him make fiery speeches in the cafes of Second Avenue, while he marshalled armies of matches and toothpicks on soiled tablecloths to demonstrate how he would conquer the armies of the monarchies, drag down emperors, and kings and over-run Europe.

Then came the crash in Russia with Bronstein, or Trotsky, the right arm of Nicolai Lenin. And almost overnight, in the blood and terror of the Red Revolution, Loeb Bronstein's matches and toothpicks became flesh and blood soldiers—five million of them—with Leon Trotsky General-in-Chief of all the Soviet armies.

For three years this New York East Side scribbler lived in a railroad coach while he moved up and down and across Russia fighting and destroying the counter-revolutionists, displaying military genius of the highest order.

THEN followed the death of Lenin in 1924, the turning point in the career of Trotsky, the Red Generalissimo.

Both he and Stalin, the Man of Steel, coveted the mantle of the dead Lenin. But the ruthless Stalin clutched it first and his hold was unbreakable.

Russia was too small to contain the two, and in 1924 Trotsky's number went up!

Stalin exiled him to Turkestan, this man without whose fiery energy there would be no Soviet Russia today.

He wandered over Europe, Czechoslovakia, Norway and France, until he found a friendly refuge in Mexico City—a living proof that revolutions as well as republics are often ungrateful.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—It was grand to have even a few hours in the country. As I told you, I arrived in time to go up to the polling booth to see the others vote and to pay my annual subscription to the Hyde Park Red Cross.

Up there, it is an institution for the Red Cross membership drive to begin on Election Day, on the theory, I imagine, that they will find more people together than at any other time.

The New York Chapter of the American Red Cross has opened an information bureau at 590 Madison avenue.

This is an effort to spread information about the National Red Cross roll-call and to tell people what the national headquarters are doing to help war sufferers in addition to their general work.

There will be celebrities present on different days.

Gertrude Lawrence, who is at present playing in "Skylark," has agreed to help in the roll-call.

If you happen to want information as to what you can do to be of assistance to people who are in need of Red Cross help anywhere in the world, contact this office, for they are prepared to answer all questions of this kind.

THE PRESIDENT had a grand time inspecting the first little house built on one end of a barn at Hyde Park.

FIRST LADY AT RED CROSS ROLL-CALL MEETING
Commends Efforts to Bring Relief to War Sufferers

Another week should really finish it, and my brother and husband are so pleased with their handiwork that they are planning to build a great many more around the place.

As the President has had a little cold, he decided to stay over another day. Not being anxious to spend another night on the train unnecessarily, I took an afternoon train back to New York City and came down here last night.

I had an interesting time on the train, for two or three people felt kindly inclined, my neighbor in the next seat talked with me as did my neighbor across the aisle.

A lady across the aisle, not having a watch and having lost track of the time, suddenly thought she had reached her destination and hurriedly rang for the porter to find out if she ought to leave the train.

I have done that very often when absorbed in a book or some work I was doing. Once I actually did find I was pulling into a station where I should be prepared to get off and I practically fell out of the train, putting on my things as I went.

Broadway Medley

KING GEORGE HONORS J. P. MORGAN

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—J. P. Morgan is exhibiting to his friends a copy of the coronation program he received from King George VI. The program is autographed by both George and Elizabeth . . . "This is very rare, isn't it?" Morgan was asked . . . "I guess so," Morgan replied, "but this is really valuable," and he brought forth the wrapping paper in which the program had been mailed. It indicates that the King had attended to the mailing himself—Morgan's name and address both are in the King's handwriting.

RETURN—Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes, venerable aunt of President Roosevelt, who has been living in Paris these many years, has refused as yet to heed the plea of Ambassador Bullitt that all Americans return to this country immediately . . . Mrs. Forbes, however, is planning to come back . . . "But I'm waiting," she explains, "until I can get accommodations which are comfortable."

ROSA PONSELLE

* * *

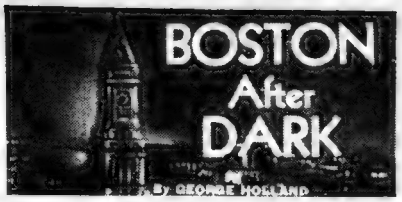
NOISE—Rosa Ponselle, the opera singer, is disturbed by the slightest sound . . . She was in Seattle recently completing a cross-country tour. Although the hotel management there gave her the best suite, Miss Ponselle complained that the regular beating of gongs in the street prevented her from sleeping. She therefore addressed a note to the Mayor asking him to eliminate the gongs, as a favor not only to her but to her father-in-law, the Mayor of Baltimore. "Sorry we can't oblige," the Mayor explained. "Those gongs are the stop-go signals of our traffic system."

* * *

AWARD—The report from London is that Robert B. Q. Henriques, 34 years old, has been notified that he won the $15,000 All-Nations Prize Novel Contest . . . The story will break here shortly . . . The novel is called "No Arms, No Armour" . . . The novel is very much pacifist in tone . . . But after Henriques had written it, war was declared—and he's now a major in the British Army."

* * *

TRAINING—Mrs. John D. Rockefeller exhibited the collection of paintings made by Dahlov Zorach, daughter of the famed sculptor, William Zorach—who collected and saved these paintings ever since the first one was made . . . They are exhibited as an indication of what self-training can accomplish in art, because Dahlov Zorach never had a painting instructor . . . But she attended the city and country school. The art teacher there was William Zorach.



EXCLUSIVE: A good many strong, silent men of the sea are about ready to talk preferably, if possible, to First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill . . . These worthies are worried, fearfully worried that sudden death is going to strike from just below the surface of the sea as well as from the air . . . These fears are being expressed freely along the Boston waterfront and in places where seafaring men gather for a nip of grog . . . It's the Admiralty's system of convoying vessels bound for English ports from Halifax that has the sailors worried . . . They are certain that the enemy knows what all Halifax and most of the Atlantic waterfront knows . . . That is—that as many as ninety ships are entrusted to the care of one convoy flotilla, and that the string of vessels handed to the care of the Halifax-to-Somewhere-in-the-British-Isles convoy seldom has less than fifty units to a sailing . . . Comes the "war in earnest"—it wouldn't come dramatically tomorrow, on the anniversary of Armistice Day, would it?—and seadogs who have braved the terrors of an Atlantic sailing have a dread that these tremendous fleets, stretching at times on a two-mile line will be certain targets for U-boats or bombers . . . Halifax is the port of sailing for most of the merchantmen loading at New York and Boston, the mariners say.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Less than ten feet from the spot where this is being written, the mourned Eddie O'Hare discussed current topics last April . . . He sat as he generally sat, "riding" a chair, his elbows on the back and his back to the wall . . . To his friends and acquaintances he disclaimed stories that he had any gang connections whatever, and explained the source of these rumors as a feud with a group of Chicago newspapermen and resultant stories which he didn't bother to deny . . . Locally, he had the reputation of being the "smartest" man in New England racing . . . He had the valuable knack of converting foes into friends . . . It failed him unexplainably when he needed it most . . . He left devoted admirers in this state, and among them are men in very high places, both socially and in politics.

IN OBSERVANCE of her 80th birthday, Mrs. Fanny G. Estabrook of Braintree was squired by her son, Cleon Estabrook, to the International Casino in New York . . . That was on September 3, and it was the Braintree octogenarian's first visit in twenty years to a nightclub . . . Last night, Mrs. Estabrook and her son renewed acquaintance with Alex Finn, whom they had met at the Casino, and this time at the Mayfair . . . Henceforth, the Estabrooks are going to step out together at least once a month . . . Last night should have been, incidentally, a favorable time to talk your banker into a loan . . . You would have had a good chance to encounter him at the Mayfair, the Cocoanut Grove, the Latin Quarter, the Statler, the Fox and Hounds or the Bradford.

IRVING PICHEL SIGNED FOR BIBLICAL FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

Irving Pichel

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10—I certainly want to see "The Great Commandment," which Darryl Zanuck bought on the hoof, speaking figuratively. Financed by the Rev. James Friedrich, an Episcopal minister, and produced by Cathedral Pictures, it has a biblical theme based on the commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and deals with Jesus bringing peace during the Jewish revolt against the Romans in 30 A. D. After seeing what Irving Pichel, the director, had done with a limited amount of money, Darryl not only bought it for 20th Century-Fox release but signed Pichel as well.

Although nothing has been said, I understand that Zanuck will make extensive additions, using the scenes already filmed as a basis. Certainly there is no better time than right now to issue a little religious propaganda, for there is too much hatred in the world today.

GINGER ROGERS

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Lew Ayres is expected to ask for his legal papers from Ginger Rogers now that Helen Gilbert is free. She is his real heart and you wouldn't have doubted it if you had seen them together; Dolores Del Rio and Orson Welles looking at "The End of the Day" at the Esquire; Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston, who apparently had a misunderstanding, getting together at the Frank Borzage cocktail party; it's time for Marie Wilson to come home. Nick Grinde glimpsed with Barbara Pepper at the night spots.

* * *

WAYNE MORRIS' contract has been renewed at Warners and he and Bubbles couldn't be happier; little Suzanne, Danny Danker's baby, who has been very sick at the Cedars of Lebanon, was well enough to go home today; Gregory Ratoff welcomes Eugenie Leontovitch, his bride, home after a long absence. He'll entertain for her Friday night after the preview of "Daytime Wife"; Miriam Hopkins has been out of "Virginia City" for a few days with a bad sore throat; Johnny Weissmuller, who seems very happy, with his bride, dining tete-a-tete with her at the Cafe Lamaze.

* * *

EDDIE LOWE flew in late yesterday to go into a huddle with Universal about a new movie; Lawrence Tibbett, Jr., seldom misses a day telephoning Kay Stewart long distance; Earl Stoll, who got kayoed by George Raft, doesn't believe lightning strikes twice in the same place. He was back last night at the La Conga with a battery of lawyers; Mrs. Ernest Pascal is in the Good Samaritan for an operation. She's the daughter of George Harriman, creator of Krazy Kat.

DAILY STORY

Magic Potion

I WAS a disillusioned wife. I had expected so much from marriage — money, luxuries and security. I had dreamed of a mansion, spacious lawns and automobiles. But matrimony gave me only a husband and two children.

It would be unfair to say that John had failed me. Truly, he did the best he could, provided a tenement home, gave me a weekly allowance and scrupulously paid the household bills.

But the future I had anticipated on my nuptial day never fully materialized.

AT LENGTH, driven to distraction by fancied grievances, I resolved to visit Dr. Hughes. Medical science must have something that would help me, I reasoned. Some opiate, some magic potion.

The walls were thin. Words spoken in the inner office came through to the outer. I could not fail to hear an interesting conversation.

I had seen the woman enter. She was a large, handsome, radiant person, faultlessly garbed.

"I know, doctor," she was saying. "It can't be long. Your skill has given me 10 years of life, 10 useful and happy years. It would be too much to ask for more. I am resigned. My only wish is that the family be not informed of my condition until notice of my doom is absolutely necessary. You see, I want to spare everybody needless grief and anxiety."

"It will be very soon," the doctor told her. "We have done our utmost. But we must admit our helplessness. Only a miracle can effect that which I regret surgery cannot as yet accomplish."

"You know, Peter is graduating in June," she intervened. "I must live to see him. And you're going to be there, too. What a marvelous future he's going to have! I feel it. In him, I believe I shall find immortality."

There was laughing enthusiasm in her voice—sunshine that no dark cloud could ever hide. I cringed, shocked at my own inadequacy.

I DID NOT SEE Dr. Hughes. I did not need to state my case or bare my shallow soul.

Eavesdropping had provided the magic potion that washed away my imaginary ills.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHAT DO MOST of the folks you know want to get out of life? That's easy to answer . . . comfort, pleasure, safety. Enough fun to make them happy . . . enough money to keep them from being bothered . . . no sorrow or trouble or dangerous risk. Now and then some ambitious guy wants to burn up the road, but most of us just want to sit pretty and take things easily.

YET EASE AND SAFETY ARE ACTUALLY THE WORST THINGS THAT CAN HAPPEN TO US.

Havelock Ellis once said, "If we want to live in any true sense at all we are compelled to live dangerously."

That's the deepest truth—the oldest law—in life.

DANGER? Most of us think of it as disaster. Have you ever thought of danger as an OPPORTUNITY . . . A DOOR INTO A LARGER LIFE?

Instinctively, we dodge danger as something abnormal, something that menaces life and which should be avoided. BUT DANGER SERVES LIFE. Danger is as normal and necessary an accompaniment of growth as air and water and food. GROWTH CAN'T COME WITHOUT DANGER.

That has been true of every form of life, clear back to the first pollywog in the Primeval ooze. Those that live BIG had to LIVE HARD.

Those that got anywhere had to disregard comfort and caution and TAKE RISKS. PERIL IS THE PRICE OF EVOLUTION.

You, today, can live BIG OR LITTLE, just as you choose.

It may not be your lot to discover new continents, release electricity, reform a nation or die on a martyr's cross.

But you can, within the scope of your own nature, do things quite as amazing. You, too, may be an adventurer . . . an inventor . . . a crusader . . . a poet . . . a conqueror. BUT TO DO SO YOU MUST LIVE DANGEROUSLY.

YOU MUST DARE new ideas, as Hannibal dared the Alps.

You must scorn discomforts and diversions, as Edison scorned them . . . as all great workers have scorned them.

You must face loneliness and misunderstanding and humiliation as Lincoln faced them . . . For these are the dangers and trials that beset all advance. IF YOU EXPECT TO GO ON, you must pay your way!

MOTHER ADVOCATES WAR BAN

Mothers who were helpless in the World War to keep their sons from death or injury on foreign soil now have a weapon to enforce neutrality in the present European conflict, a Dorchester woman declared yesterday, pledging support to the Legion of Mothers of America.

She is Mrs. Josephine G. McNeill of Ballou ave., sister of a World War overseas veteran and one of the fast-growing number of New England women enrolled in the Legion.

"I won't stop until I have every Dorchester mother enrolled in the Legion of Mothers of America," Mrs. McNeill said. "If the mothers of this country get behind the Legion there will be no war involving the United States.

ALLSTON GIRL'S PLEDGE

"Twenty years ago the women didn't have anything to say on the matter of young men going to war. But in 1939 the situation has altered. The forces in this country that would draw us into Europe's conflagration will have something to think about when the mothers are successfully mobilized."

An Allston girl, Miss Agnes Whelan of Alcott st., pledged her support to the Legion, and wrote:

"I herewith pledge myself to support your program. I have no sweetheart or husband to go, but I have two nephews, my brother, and my brother-in-law who fought on the other side in the last war. My sister's sweetheart was killed in action three weeks before the armistice was signed. I have plenty of sad memories from the last conflict."

Also enrolling in the Legion, Mrs. John R. Blake of Fair Oaks park, Needham, declared:

"Let us be like our forefathers. If it comes to protecting our country over here, all right. But let's not go over there."

A mother of two sons in the National Guard, who is also a granddaughter of two veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, pledged her aid in preserving young American manhood from the European war.

The mother, Mrs. Gertrude Edmunds of Kendall st., Framingham, writes:

"I am a mother of four sons, two of them in the National Guard. I am a granddaughter of two Grand Army men, and I would not want my four sons, all of military age, to go to war. I would not mind if they defended our own country—but why go over there?"

RESPOND TO SLOGANS

1—To oppose the sending of American soldiers to fight on foreign soil.

2—To support a strong program for adequate national defense.

3—To combat all "isms" whose object is the destruction of the American form of government.

The Legend of Mothers is open to all women, married and single, who are American citizens. No dues are demanded. It is a non-sectarian, non-political organization. Sign name and address and mail pledge cards to Box 228, Boston, Mass. For further information call Liberty 4000.

Left $7200, She Can Keep Old Age Funds

Despite testimony that Elizabeth Quinn, 81, of Worcester, inherited $7200 after receiving $1959 in old age assistance, the City of Worcester will not be permitted to recover the funds expended, the Supreme Court ruled.

"The payments were authorized by the statute and were not in pursuance of any contract between the parties. Their receipt by the defendant did not impose upon her any present obligation to reimburse the city," Justice James J. Ronan decreed.

SEN. CAPPER ASKS ROOSEVELT ACT FOR PEACE

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—All eyes in Washington turned today toward President Roosevelt, head of the greatest of the neutral states of the world, for a sign, as he returned from Hyde Park, of a move to join the other neutral states in last-minute efforts to stay the impending catastrophe in Europe.

The President conferred with Secretary of State Hull, but if the European crisis and the overtures for a peace by negotiation intimated by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold were discussed no word of what transpired was made public.

Sen. Capper of Kansas, Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, was one of those at the Capitol who said he believed it would be in order for the United States to offer its services to further peace negotiations.

OTHERS BACK PLAN

Two other Senators and a member of the House are known to be contemplating urging the President to use his good offices at this critical juncture. Of these three, two are members of Mr. Roosevelt's party.

There is no partisanship in the unanimous expression among members of Senate and House still on Washington favorable to the United States taking its place with the other neutral nations in friendly effort to save Europe from all the horrors of war.

The President, however, made no sign of his proposed course.

A Democratic member of the House said if Mr. Roosevelt would tender his good offices, desperate as the situation between the belligerents appeared to be, further war might yet be averted.

"I believe peace negotiations are always in order," said Sen. Capper. "There should be peace negotiations now.

"I am in sympathy with efforts toward peace being made by King Leopold and Queen Wilhelmina, supported by Denmark, Norway and Sweden. I hope they will be able to put it over.

WARNS U. S. OF PERIL

"I believe it would be in order for the United States to offer its services to that end. As a powerful neutral, the United States can sponsor peace negotiations.

"The United States cannot afford to participate in this European war. To do so would be a disservice to itself and to Europe. But the United States can, and should participate in a program of peace in Europe and the rest of the world now.

"Looking back at the World War and looking at Europe today, and remembering some of the lessons of history, I am very doubtful as to the United States, and in the long run the rest of the world, getting anything of benefit from this war.

TRUCKS TOW SNOW CRUISER

CAZENOVIA, N. Y., Nov. 10 (AP)—Hopeful of reaching Boston by next Tuesday night, the ponderous Penguin 1, Admiral Byrd's snow cruiser, rolled eastward again today under murky skies with Albany—125 miles away—its overnight destination.

The crew rested last night at Lafayette, 12 miles west of here, after yesterday's trip over snow and ice-covered roads from Pavilion.

Two state public works trucks towed the cruiser slowly up a long, steep grade approaching the village of Pompey. The left front motor of the machine had begun to smoke at the start of the grade and the tow was arranged to allow the motor to cool.

At the start of the day's trip, the cruiser, standing a maximum of 20 feet 15 inches high, successfully negotiated a railroad underpass with a clearance of only 12 feet 8 inches, as the wheels were retracted 10 feet.

More than an hour was required to climb the three-mile grade to Pompey, the cruiser chugging along under its own power after the trucks had given it a start.

The crew halted for lunch at a roadside inn atop the hill, eight miles from the day's starting point and nearly five hours after they had set out.

A short time later the Penguin 1 was headed down the other side of the ridge, moving carefully over icy patches along a grade almost as long as the one it had just mastered.

Its breadth virtually spaning the highway, the cruiser was to be pulled off the main route occasionally to allow piled-up automobile traffic to flow by.

U. S. Plans to 'Settle' Byrd Polar Regions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The State Department released today a statement of policy, applicable to the forthcoming government Antarctic expedition under Rear Admiral Byrd, that settlement of Polar regions, and not merely discovery, is necessary for claims to sovereignty.

The policy was laid down 15 years ago by Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, but officials say it has never been changed.

It is contained in a hitherto unpublished diplomatic document in the foreign relations volumes of 1924.

It means that Byrd and his party must not merely discover new land in order to have it bear the Stars and Stripes, but men must stay there for some years to come.

Only 2 Roosevelts In Social Register

The only Roosevelts listed in the new 289-page Boston Social Register are Anne Clark Roosevelt and her husband, John Roosevelt, son of the President. Kermit Roosevelt, Jr., was listed in the previous register, but he has returned to New York. Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt were listed for a season in 1934.

New titles listed in the book are the Earl and Countess of Lindsay, the latter former Ethel Tucker. Mr. Lindsay inherited the title last January upon the death of an older brother.

One Dead, Many Hurt In 6-Day Auto Toll

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty today reported the following Boston accident record in connection with Governor Saltonstall's safety campaign:

Reconstruct Slaying Of 13-Year-Old Girl

ST. ALBANS, Me., Nov. 10—Somerset County officials today used tape measures and drew diagrams in an attempt to reconstruct the scene of the mysterious slaying of Phyllis Jane Rumery, 13, whose shot-riddled body was found behind a barn of the Alfred Hilton farm.

Sheriff Martin J. Gallant said a preliminary report by the medical examiner indicated the shot-gun charge pierced the girl's chest in a "downward" direction.

Meanwhile, Ralph Hilton, 30, who police said, discovered the body, is under $2000 bail, accused of attacking the girl a day aftef she arrived to care for his invalid mother.

Arraigned before Judge Thomas A. Anderson in Pittsfield, Hilton pleaded innocent and was ordered to appear before the grand jury.

According to Sheriff Gallant, Hilton reported the girl borrowed the shotgun in order to go hunting. A few minutes later, the man was quoted as saying, he found her body near a woodpile. The gun was on the ground, several feet from the body.

GRANDAD DIES DANCING

Many Hurt in Red Riot in Detroit

DETROIT, Nov. 10 (AP)—A score of persons nursed bruises today as a result of a riot that followed a Communist party rally last night. Three persons were injured seriously, and six were arrested.

Police said the fighting started when members of war veterans' and patriotic organizations massed outside the hall and charged the Communists and sympathizers as they left the building. Fighting spread up and down the street as battling groups detached themselves from the throng.

7 DIE IN SPANISH PLANE

SEGOVIA, Spain, Nov. 10 (AP)—At least seven Spanish Air Corps officers were killed yesterday when a military plane ne route to Palma, Mallorca, from Valladolid crashed in Segovia province.

Teacher Near Death In Lynnfield Crash

Crushed when her sedan was telescoped in a collision with a truck on the Newburyport turnpike at Lynnfield, Miss Margery L. Joyce, 32, popular Danvers school teacher, was critically injured today.

According to the police, the teacher's car was traveling north when the crash occurred and the front end of her auto was jammed beneath the engine of the truck.

Miss Joyce was taken to Melrose Hospital, where she was reported to have received a compound fracture of the left leg, internal injuries and numerous cuts. She is a teacher in the Charter st. school, Danvers.

Four new deaths were recorded as traffic accidents mounted in Greater Boston despite the current safety campaign.

Stephen W. Irwin, 38, of Arden road, Wellesley Hills, was killed when his car skidded off the Worcester turnpike and hit a tree in Natick.

Mrs. Katherine M. Andreoli, 63, of Washington street, Brighton, wife of retired District Chief Thomas H. Andreoli of the Boston fire department, was killed by an auto near her home as she walked from the doorway of the Presentation Church.

In Somerville, Dr. Alfred Freeman McAlpine, 46, of Providence, prominent Tufts graduate, died when his car crashed an Elevated Company post at Northern Artery and Somerville ave.

True MacArthur, 56, of Hill st., Norwood, was killed and two companions hurt in the crash of their car with a pole on Main st., Walpole.

The Big Time at the Boston Garden November 15 to 25, which you and your family just can't afford to miss, and other good times in which Americans are participating throughout the land, are being enjoyed while shadows lengthen over much of the world. In London, Paris, Berlin, good times such as this party at the Garden cannot be quaffed freely and fully, for there is sorrow at the bottom of the glass.

The American Legion, with its 41,000 members in this metropolitan area, and the First National Stores, are co-operating in this occasion, grateful for the common fact that joy in this city and throughout this land need not yet be rationed; that it is thus far in 1939 the right and privilege of every American boy and girl to play in the sun without the danger of the shadow of bombers overhead. We two organizations mutually believe that this great blessing is a part of the American way, toward the enrichment of which each of our organizations strives in its individual sphere.

The purposes of the Legion and of First National Stores are more fundamental than merely "having a good time"; yet we are convinced that as each of our groups more near-

THE CAT'S out of the bag . . . Today everybody is learning just which debutantes have been given the nod by Junior League officials and which ones were left out in the cold . . . The new members (they're called provisionals until they pass exams in social service after Christmas) had their first meeting yesterday . . .

As no one except members of the fact-finding board who have been busy looking up credentials, know which girls are really IN until this meeting, there's always great interest in the occasion . . . Even League officers were so curious to see what the new gals looked like that they lined up in the windows to watch them alight from cars and taxis and run the gamut of photographers before entering the sacred portals of the League for the first time . . .

The photographers grabbed their cameras when attractive Cynthia Burrage appeared on the scene for she was a perfect picture subject in a sky blue velveteen dress, tucked beret and purse, just the color of her eyes . . . Over her dress she wore a short gray fur jacket . . . Priscilla Crocker, a dark haired, vivacious deb, wore scarlet gloves and purse to match the piping on her black reefer coat and a cluster of bright yellow and scarlet feathers adorned her black Tyrolean hat . . .

Dedham Girls in Group

SALLY REED wore a rosy red reefer coat with a rose jersey turban and arrived with Elise Cunningham whose black outfit was trimmed with leopard . . . They are both from Dedham as are Evelyn Soule, Patricia Bayne and Anne Grant, who are also IN . . .

Elizabeth Jenney, Amabel Eshleman and Natalie Marston were so happy about it all they came tripping arm in arm down the street singing "We're Off to See the Wizard" just the way Judy Garland tripped along with Tin Man and Scarecrow in the movie . . . They came from Sandy Loder's luncheon judging by the leis of fresh white carnations which Elizabeth wore over her gray fur coat . . . Sandy, you know is the girl who came from Hawaii to make her debut in Boston . . .

Sandy Matz, Ann Tarbell and Barbara Phippen arrived after driving around the block a couple of times to find a parking space . . . Still others at the meeting to help elect Mary Coolidge and Dorothy Gannett, chairmen of the new members, were Martha Addison, Elizabeth Leonard, Nancy Vogel, Elizabeth Putnam, Elizabeth Rackemann, Mary Louise Rice, Charlotte McElwain, Evelyn Baker, Patty Sabine, Susan Chapin, Joan Curtis, Betsy Inches, Genevra Hobbs, Nancy Putnam Smith, Margaret Fry, Gloria Coolidge, Gertrude Shaw, Joan Warland, Harriet Watson, Leslie Chase and many others . . .

New post deb members include attractive Hope Halsey, Mrs. Elliott Robbins, Cynthia Houston, Evelyn Lilly and Nancy Viele . . .

It wasn't all play and no work at the lovely tea party which Mrs. George Swift gave yesterday for the Ladies' Aid of the Infants' Hospital . . . Dr. Eddy's Question Box

Tested and Approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau

IS GINGERBREAD GOOD FOR CHILDREN? | DOES STRAINING HURT APPLE SAUCE?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Questions concerning foods, sanitation and health will be answered only if a stamped, addressed envelope accompanies your request. No exceptions can be made to this rule. Prescriptional advice can not be given, nor can food or drug samples be analyzed. Address Dr. Walter H. Eddy, 57th st., at Eighth ave., New York city.

"Is gingerbread considered a wholesome food for growing children, served plain or sprinkled with powdered sugar or topped with whipped cream in the last form to take the place of a dessert?" M. W.

One of the reasons why gingerbread has particularly good value as a dessert is that it is not oversweet. The addition of whipped cream seems quite desirable, but I see little reason for sprinkling it with powdered sugar.

Strain It If You Like

"I read recently that straining apple sauce imprired the vitamin content or in some way destroyed part of the food value. Is this true and, if so, just what does happen and why? I always can a great deal of apple sauce and I strain all I make." W. L. J.

The only vitamin that could possibly be affected by straining the fruit would be the vitamin C, which is reduced in quantity if allowed to come in contact with air while hot. However, the process of straining would probably not bring enough air in contact with the vitamin itself to produce this effect, and I should not hesitate to strain the apple sauce.

Dry Cereals Are Excellent Food

"Kindly advise me if rice flakes and other dry ready-to-eat cereals contain any foreign substance (such as chemicals which might be used in the process of manufacture). My children eat such cereals daily. Some one has told me that only cooked cereal contains any food value." H. F.

Any dry cereal which has the Good Housekeeping seal of approval will be found to contain no foreign or toxic substances. In fact, in the preparation of these cereals there is no reason for the introduction of any such foreign substance. Dietitians frequently recommend hot cooked cereals as particularly good food for a child's breakfast in the winter months, partly because of the character of the cereal used, and partly because of the added value of the heat obtained through the cooking.

The value of any cereal, however, depends on the food elements that are in it, and certainly the same elements are present in dry corn, wheat, and rye cereals as are in the same grains when cooked. If your children like dry cereals, by all means serve them.

VITAMIN C is the antiscorbutic vitamin, because its absence from the diet results in scurvy. It is particularly abundant in fruits, green vegetables and milk. Oranges, lemons and tomatoes are the richest known sources.

SEASONING

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

INGREDIENTS

1½ c. sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. powdered ginger
2 eggs
½ c. granulated sugar
½ c. molasses
1 c. sour milk
6 tbsp. melted butter, margarine or salad oil

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Sift together the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs until light, add the sugar, molasses, and sour milk, and blend well. Stir this mixture into the dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Add melted shortening. Bake in a waffle iron, following manufacturer's directions for operating the iron. Serve with Lemon Sauce or whipped cream. Makes 6 waffles. To serve 2 or 3 make half this recipe.

SERVE with coffee for dessert after a dinner of tomato soup, cold cuts, cabbage salad and potato chips, or as a refreshment course at an evening bridge party or Sunday night supper.

Cooking

Delicious Breads

By MARTHA LEE

The aroma of freshly made bread and coffee cakes from the kitchen means good things to eat for the whole family and they are quick to demand their sampling rights. It is a pleasant satisfaction for the cook who has achieved these baking triumphs. She has reason to be proud of gold crusted loaves and tempting coffee cakes.

Here are some delicious yeast breads which are bound to please. Apple coffee cake is made from a yeast batter which requires no kneading. This type of yeast bread is especially good served fresh from the oven.

ROLLED CINNAMON LOAF

2 cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
2 eggs, beaten
5 cups sifted flour, about
3 tbsp. melted butter
1 cup sugar
3 tsp. cinnamon

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk (about 2 hours). When light, divide it into two portions. Roll out each portion into a rectangular sheet ½-inch thick and about 8 inches wide. Brush with melted butter. Mix sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle thickly over sheet of dough. Roll jelly-roll fashion and place roll into greased bread pan. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Brush lightly with milk. Sprinkle with sugar or sugar and cinnamon and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Makes 2 loaves.

APPLE COFFEE CAKE

½ cup milk
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup melted shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg or 2 egg yolks
½ tsp. salt
½ cup raisins
1½ cups sifted flour
3 to 4 medium apples
4 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Soften yeast in milk which has been scalded and then cooled to lukewarm. Add shortening, sugar, egg, salt, raisins and enough flour to make a stiff drop batter. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Stir down and fill greased cake pan one-half to three-fourths full. Arrange apple slices overlapping in rows over top. Mix 4 tablespoons of sugar with 1 teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle over apples. Let rise until puffy. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 1 coffee cake 8 inches by 8 inches by 2 inches.

MET 'DRUMS ALONG THE MOHAWK' VIVID, HISTORICAL SAGA

Technicolor At Its Best

By PEGGY DOYLE

That the inspired story-teller John Ford directs his technicolor camera back through the years to America's colorful but rarely filmed Revolutionary period for "Drums Along the Mohawk," a blood-and-thunder historical film that should make many a pretty penny at the Met boxoffice this week.

This film version of Walter D. Edmonds' exciting best-seller of the same name has color, virility, romance, humor as well as the magnetic pull of the co-starring Claudette Colbert and Henry Fonda.

The two, the Lana and Gil Martin of Edmonds' novel, have just been married as the picture opens and are departing for their homestead in the far reaches of the Mohawk Valley. She is a beautiful, city-bred girl and her honeymoon home is a rude one-room cabin in a wilderness.

• • •

Their first visitor is a painted Indian, at sight of whom she becomes hysterical. It is a trifle embarrassing for the young bridegroom and the Indian, who are the best of friends.

Later, there are more visitations from Indians, not good Indians like Blue Back but inebriated redskins on the warpath, flourishing tomahawks and flaming torches, who drove them and the other settlers out of their homes, burned their crops and the homes they had so lovingly and painstakingly built and furnished.

Edmonds, a local man, in his novel has dealt with this phase in the lives of these pioneering farmers in the Mohawk Valley who, for four years, had to cope with plying Indians, British and Tories with little or no aid from the government.

It is a bitter and brutal saga of of widely scattered colonists bravely but vainly trying to preserve their farms but out of it Director Ford has achieved a magnificently exciting picture of unceasing tragedy and gay gallantry.

• • •

With the skill of a Sean O'Casey he has introduced comedy in the heels of tragedy and his use of color to suggest action and hues is yet to be equalled. There can be no question that "Drums Along the Mohawk" is Technicolor at its best.

Fonda and Miss Colbert are spirited and convincing as Gil and Lana Martin, the latter looking doubly lovely in her true colors as Technicolor reveals them. Elsa May Odell's spunky Widow McKlennar is one of the best things she has ever done.

The second feature, another chapter in the absorbing Jones Family series, is "Too Busy to Work." It introduces a new member of the family, headed by Spring Byington and Jed Prouty, none other than amusing Joan Davis.

Suspense Abounds in 'Real Glory' at Loew's

Guerilla Skirmishes Thrill All

There is no ersatz about the warfare in Sam Goldwyn's United Artists release, "The Real Glory," the Gary Cooper-Andrea Leeds co-starrer on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

According to the Goldwyn accounting experts, a quarter of a million dollars went up in smoke in order that the series of guerilla skirmishes between the Moros and the combined forces of American troops and native constabulary might be authoritative reportage.

That is certainly a grand hell of money. But it the expenditure has been tremendous, so is the result been tremendous. It is a heartstopping spectacle of mass combat, and paced to thrilling gun tempo.

The story stems from the exploits of the Philippine scouts after the Spanish-American war when they policed the island which was overrun with insurrectionists and religious fanatics.

The six-foot he-man of the screen is cast as a medical officer assigned to duty in the Philippines. He is responsible for showing up the trouble-making Moro tribesmen for the cowards they are and terminating the fierce religious warfare that has turned the beautiful island into a seething hell of savagery.

Andrea Leeds plays the beautiful daughter of the fear-ridden commandant whose ill-advised orders menace the safety of the little brown men as well as the soldiers under his command.

Henry Hathaway's direction has given "The Real Glory" suspense of a breathtaking quality.

Co-featured in the second picture are Otto Kruger and Ona Munson in "Scandal Sheet." P. D.

Jack Durant Boston's Star

He does a series of screen and operatic star caricatures, rounding out his act with some eye-popping tumbling that would even defeat the senior Doug Fairbanks in his agile "Robinhood" days.

Another old friend, Pansy, the Horse, appears on the current stage bill. Pansy is up to all her old tricks and if you like Pansy like yesterday's opening show audience did time will not have staled them for you.

The Four Collegians—three men and a pretty girl in shorts—are an attractive and athletic aggregation. Carroll and Howe, who engage in some comedy patter, are mildly funny.

Maurice and Maryea, who have danced their way around the world, are graceful and skilled. The Three Dots, the Harmony Girls and Buddy Allen, the latter an accordion player, round out an acceptable bill.

The screen features are "Golden Boy," with Barbara Stanwyck, William Holden and Adolphe Menjou, and of "The First World War."

Gala Late Show At Globe Tonight

Jeryl Dean, Tirzah and Lillian Lion are the three gracing the Globe's Armistice Eve midnight show, starting tonight at 11:30 p. m. The radio amateur contest will go on after the regular 8:30 show.

British Navy Steals Acting Honors in 'Torpedoed' Hit

"Torpedoed," the Herbert Wilcox production which was made with the co-operation of the British Navy and is now unreeling on the Paramount and Fenway screens, is an unpretentious film that sneaks up on us by the simple force of its subject matter.

Not the least dramatic angle is that the Royal Oak, recently sunk by a German sub, starred in this picture as one of the ships loaned by the British Admiralty to Director-Producer Wilcox. Its screen billing is "El Mirante."

"Torpedoed" is the story of a British cruiser's handling of an unsavory Caribbean business. The president of one of those nice little republics is being sheltered in a British consulate and a rebel warship is threatening to open fire unless he is surrendered.

Into this touchy situation steams a British cruiser, the Audacious.

Under Wilcox' skilled direction the picture has the authority of an uncensored newsreel from out of the war zone. To cement the comparison, it is the ships, rather than the cast that star in this production.

Richard Cromwell and Noah Beery, who are more British than the British in their Hollywood way, get the billing, but the English fleet sails away with the acting honors without even half trying.

On the same program, cute Jane Withers and the zany Ritz Brothers, all of whom have personal appearances here, are co-starred in "Pack Up Your Troubles."

DRIVE TO CUT U. S. SPENDING STARTS

By CECIL B. DICKSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS) — Congressional economy bloc leaders began to organize their forces to compel a reduction in government spending following a statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that responsibility for increasing the $45,000,000,000 statutory debt limit rests on Congress.

The federal debt limit is slated to be reached by June 1, next year, with spending now exceeding all records for peace-time. Despite a pickup in revenues, due to increased business, the debt has reached $41,168,000,000.

With a huge financing operation scheduled December 15, the debt is headed to reach $42,500,000,000 by Jan. 1, 1940.

Morgenthau revealed that President Roosevelt would withhold any request for an increase in the debt limit in his budget message, but indicated that the issue would be placed before Congress later.

At the last session Congress opposed Morgenthau's proposal to increase the debt limit to $50,000,000,000, after he testified before a committee that he was unwilling to estimate how much debt the nation could bear. He said at that time:

"I am not worried about it going up to 50 billions, but I do not want to make any forecast.

"Congress makes the appropriations," he said, "I am just the paymaster. If we get up to the debt limit, I won't draw a check for a penny more."

Senator Adams (D.) of Colorado, chairman of the Senate appropriations relief sub-committee, immediately called for economy in government spending and charged:

"What the spenders are trying to do is to test the credit of the United States to see how far we can go. It's like jumping off Niagara Falls to see how deep the bottom is. We won't find out until the barrel breaks."

Senator Byrnes (D.) of North Carolina, meantime, was revealed cooperating with Adams in organizing an economy drive.

Stock Prices Steady After Early Slump

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—The stock market steadied today after an early setback of fractions to around 2 points for leaders.

While dealings slowed appreciably after a fast opening, extreme declines were reduced near midday and, here and there, modest advances were in evidence.

General Motors and Chrysler held well, as did Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and Pennsylvania.

Fears that a real push is about to get under way in the static European war, brokers said, brought out some offerings. Another downturn in the British pound sterling and other foreign currencies in terms of the dollar was seen as an unsettling influence. Home business news remained cheerful but was apparently a neutral speculative factor.

Bonds inclined to slip and commodities were mixed. Foreign securities markets were lower.

Noon prices: U. S. Steel 69⅛ off ⅛; Bethlehem Steel 82½ off ¾; Douglas 79⅞ off 3/4; duPont 176½ off ⅞; Anaconda Copper 31⅛ off ⅜; Westinghouse Electric 110⅜ unchanged; Sears Roebuck 82⅛ up ¾; Chrysler 86¾ up ½; General Motors 51⅝ up ⅛; U. S. Rubber 38⅞ off ⅛; U. S. Gypsum 79 off 1.

MARKETS TO CLOSE ARMISTICE DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Armistice Day in the United States and Remembrance Day in Canada will be generally observed in those countries tomorrow by security and commodity exchanges.

The holiday, falling as it does on Saturday, will produce the most complete world-wide financial shutdown in recent years, with the exception of Christmas and New Year's Day.

The Amsterdam Bourse will occupy the financial spotlight tomorrow. The London money market and Liverpool Produce Exchange also will be opened.

Nov. 11 in England is not a bank holiday, but normal as well as war-time Saturday suspension of business will close the London Stock Exchange, Liverpool cotton and other markets. The Paris Bourse will be closed.

Bond's Sales Up

Bond Stores, Inc., reported sales for October of $3,136,760, an increase of 36 per cent over the same month last year. Sales for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 were $18,221,554 a rise of 21.6 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

London Metal Mart

LONDON, Nov .10 (AP) — Bar silver 23½d., unchanged (equivalent 42.62 cents on dollar basis $4.03 to the pound).

Bar gold 168s., unchanged (equivalent $33.85).

Home Buyers Are Warned

On the theory that too much of anything is bad, even a prime investment, co-operative bankers are warning potential home buyers against over-enthusiasm . . . And what is more to the point they offer prospective buyers the services necessary to insure them against costly mistakes . . .

WARNER M. ALLEN . . . Who is secretary of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League, is a particular foe of what he calls premature enthusiasm . . . For, he tells us, it is the one mistake people are likely to make when things begin to move up . . . Thereupon, he says, they obligate themselves beyond the limits of sound common sense . . . Mr. Warner adds the last thing a co-operative bank man would do is discourage anyone from owning a home, if they are in a position to do so . . . But he does urge people to find out where they are going before they commit themselves to what may later prove a bad and costly bargain . . .

• • •

ADVICE IS FREE . . . And like most things that cost nothing it is sadly neglected . . . Or completely overlooked . . . If home buyers would only go to their banker in the beginning a good proportion of later grief would be avoided . . . Conservative advice prevents buying too much house, good investment though it may be . . . That means the danger of too much financing is eliminated in the beginning . . . It is the conservative way of doing things . . . And no better proof of the benefits that accrue from such methods can be offered than the record of the banks themselves . . . Savings institutions of all kinds in this state have spotless years of solvency and prompt payments to show doubters . . .

• • •

STOCK PRICES . . . Have slipped their bonds . . . And on the downside . . . The implications of internal weakness we wrote of earlier this week, Tuesday, have been borne out . . . Both rails and industrials have signalled a temporary downtrend . . . By breaking under the series of lows established durinng early October . . . New buying must await clear indications of a bottom . . . One capable of supporting a fresh attempt to achieve new highs . . . Traders can and will try for fast turns . . . Investors so-called have no place in the market at present in the opinion of the over-signed . . .

• • •

MARKETS . . . To our way of thinking are like people . . . For the very good reason people make them . . . To call the ultimate decisions they render cold-blooded is alright . . . They probably are so; but they are not inanimate . . . Quite the contrary they represent the crushing, final opinion of a majority . . . And for the present that opinion indicates a more complete correction of the September war upsurge . . . A retreat to new vantage point is ordained . . . One from which boiling world economic events can be surveyed with greater safety . . . We think that new observation will be made from the vicinity 138 on the Dow-Jones industrial average . . .

• • •

NOTEBOOK . . . United Gas' oil prospecting in its Mississippi field is reported as coming along most satisfactorily . . . Greyhound's earnings are placed at about $2.50 a share for this year . . . Which accounts for the cheerful forecasts of more liberal dividend action . . . Kennecott Copper operations are placed at near capacity levels . . . Earnings are said to be running at the rate of $5 a share annually . . . With 1939 returns estimated around $3 a share . . . War fears have helped, but we still think building will do more for red metal producers . . . . . .

GARROS ACE 'SKY RAIDER'

Pinsard only two months later and only a few weeks after he had volunteered for the first of those wartime "special missions" which involved, under this innocuous designation, the landing of a spy on German territory and picking him up again at a prearranged date and time.

Pinsard was not caught, but on Feb. 8, 1915, while on a reconnaissance flight, such as the one in November, his motor again went panne and he came blithely to the surface to crack up in an area of rocks, fallen trees and stumps.

When he came to again, he was in a German hospital and beside him lay his observer, Lieut. de Chauffand, no more happy about it, either. After a month in a hospital at Cologne, Pinsard was shifted to a prison camp and promptly escaped.

But he was recaptured.

Finally—a year after his capture—a durance vile of 35 days ended at Ingolstadt Prison, the fort of Prince Karl in Bavaria, but Pinsard was so weak that he had to be carried back to his comrades.

Late that month, Pinsard was gone again, this time with a Capt. Menard. Sixteen days later, after a skulking journey of horror over the 200 miles of enemy territory, they slipped into Switzerland, from where they returned to Paris.

Promoted to a captaincy he was assigned to the famous Stork Escadrille—the Cigognes—and in 1917 was given comand of his own escadrille.

A valiant soldier of France!

U. S. PLANS NEW LAW FOR DRAFT

By RAYMOND KNOTTS

Copyright, 1939, by the Chicago Herald-American.

There will be no exemptions from the draft in the next war, if we should have another war. There will be only "deferments," and there's an enormous difference between them.

In the World War the man who had been exempted from service went about his business. The war was over, so far as any chance of his personal participation in it went.

In the next war the man who has been deferred will remain under orders until the war ends. His deferment will be for a stated period only. At the end of that period the reasons for his deferment will be examined again.

The World War selective service plan worked reasonably well. Under it 24,000,000 men were registered, 17,000,000 were classified and 3,000,000 were actually enrolled in the armed forces. But it was hurriedly improvised after war had been declared. It was a hasty and haphazard thing.

There is nothing haphazard about the selective service act now ready and waiting to be enacted into law if the United States should declare war again. A joint army and navy board has been busy preparing it since 1926.

Since 1928, a group of 85 reserve officers of the army and navy has been going to school to learn how to administer it. They will become, if we get into war, the staff of the director of the selective service. He will be a civilian.

Under the present plan, it is almost certain that the first group to be registered will be men between 21 and 31 years old.

In Europe youngsters of 18 are among the first to march away to war, but they wont be here. The mothers of America won't have it.

It is not planned at any time in any new war we may get in to draft boys under 21. Instead, if a second draft call comes, it will be for men of 31 to 45.

In the first group to be registered, 21 to 31 years, there are some 10,000,000 men.

THE BANKERS WERE out in force for the annual convention of the New England Bank Council . . . Most of the boys were having fun, an exception was the belligerent financier at the Latin Quarter who was not in a jovial mood . . . This old boy had both a chip on his shoulder and a complex: "Take a look at this eye," he kept saying, "does it look like a glass eye to you?" . . . He was sensitive, apparently, about that funny, but bewhiskered gag which Bobby Clark invented, and which has been widely copied . . . The gag told about the customer who faced his banker and thought he detected a glint of human kindness in one of the banker's eyes . . . Then, if you remember the gag, the customer learned that the eye was glass . . . Carl Panke, the Boston bond expert, was guiding a large delegation of the visiting financiers on a tour of the night spots . . . Oscar Hammerstein II has been scribbling for hours on end in an attempt to inject more sock into the libretto of "Very Warm For May" . . . Although business is excellent, a scad of new scenes and lines will "go in" at tomorrow's matinee.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THE "STOVE LEAGUE" had its official opening when the new National League moving picture, "Play Ball, America!", had its first showing at the Hotel Kenmore, with Bob Quinn of the Bees acting as master of ceremonies. The picture was written and produced by Ethan Allen, former baseball star, and was put out by the National League and General Mills, Inc.

Hundreds of thousands of people will see this picture during the fall and winter. Arrangements have already been completed by which Park Commissioner Long will have the picture shown to playground groups.

Baseball pictures always have a wide appeal, but I believe that youngsters enjoy them the most. This is particular true of a picture like "Play Ball, America!" which shows the stars of the National League executing various plays. The picture is really a series of lessons in the proper way to play offensive and defensive baseball, and the characters are Al Lopez, Eddie Miller, Joe Medwick, Danny MacFayden, Leo Durocher, Dick Bartell, Tony Cuccinello and the other heroes of the National League.

Mayor Maurice T. Tobin took time off from his busy life to sit in with Bob Quinn, John Quinn, Leo Goulston, Jack Onslow, Bill Stewart and the sports writers during a pre-view of the film. The Mayor is a baseball and a football fan, and gets as much relaxation and pleasure out of attending diamond and gridiron clashes as do the most rabid fans. One only has to look at the Mayor's face when he is at a sports event to know he is enjoying himself thoroughly.

A famous nerve specialist declared that the best tonic for the nerves is a hobby. Fortunately for millions of busy Americans they find this kind of healthy relaxation and mental let-down while attending athletic events.

Bill Stewart Back as Hockey Official

BILL STEWART, National League umpire and former manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, is back as an official in the National Hockey League.

"I worked as an official in the opening game in Montreal," said Bill. "My old Blackhawks were playing Montreal, and it was necessary for me to send two of them to the penalty boxes. They happened to be players for whom I had a particular liking, and I told them later that as an official I would call them as I saw them.

"Even with Canada in the war, I think hockey will have a big season. There is plenty of work in Canada as a result of war orders, while no great call has yet been made on the man power of Canada.

"It would take a long war to wreck hockey in Canada. A people at war must have recreation, and hockey furnishes it to hundreds of thousands of Canadians."

Baseball Greatest of All Sports

WITHOUT MUCH fear of contradiction by many people, I contend baseball is the greatest of all sports. This is why it has endured and prospered for over 100 years.

Baseball is understood and appreciated by the masses of the people, and furnishes intense thrills during the playing season.

Golf, tennis, swimming and other healthy outdoor sports began to make inroads on baseball a dozen years ago. This is why those persons in charge of the destinies of the national pastime have been so active recently in interesting people in baseball.

Major league baseball realizes it must give a helping hand to park and playground leagues, and that it must sell its product with the same enthusiasm that business men display in the matter of salesmanship.

This new order of things has furnished jobs for oldtime diamond heroes who tour the country giving their aid to amateur and semi-pro leagues, and making speeches on baseball before civic groups.

Now that baseball has become progressive once more there is little danger of the sport losing ground.

* * *

Baseball Always Has Page One Value

BASEBALL ALWAYS has page one value when a big story breaks. Let the Red Sox trade Jimmy Foxx or Joe Cronin and it would be front page news on the day of a Harvard-Yale game. Most sports lose interest when they are out of season, but in the case of baseball it has a strong hold on the public even in the cold winter months.

The various chapters of the Baseball Writers Association have recognized this condition, and have opened their annual winter dinners to the general public.

The dinner of the local chapter at the Copley Plaza last winter attracted a capacity gathering.

Famous managers and stars speak at these dinners, and make sports writers and the general public realize what an important part of our life baseball has become.

In the spring, if the clubs can place winning teams on the field the fans forget their own worries as they root for diamond victories. Let King Baseball continue to reign for in doing so he furnishes wholesome amusement to millions.

Joe Bardo, newcomer from New Brunswick, N. J., was the latest to join the pack, bringing the total entered to 48.

FOOTBALL FLASHES

By BILL GRIMES

Opportunity is knocking at the doors of the Boston College and Boston University athletic associations.

It is offering the Eagles and the Terriers a chance not only to keep within the bounds of their athletic budgets, but to show a healthy balance annually when they close their books.

For years Boston College and Boston University have been shackled by Harvard. The Crimson had the call, due its prestige.

B. C. and B. U. feared the consequences of competing against Harvard's football attractions. So they elected to remain on the outer rim of the local gridiron circle.

But now the time is ripe for Boston College and Boston University to go into a huddle and lay the groundwork for a gridiron rivalry similar to that which pays the freight at Fordham and New York University.

Bluntly, Boston College and Boston University have been operating on a shoe string. True, particularly in the case of B. C., the Eagle and Terrier authorities have booked attractions which demanded sizable guarantees. But, when big name football teams in the West and South started to shop around, they've wound up by signing to play either Fordham or N. Y. U.

Why? Because Fordham and N. Y. U. could afford to meet their demands.

N. Y. U. LEARNED LESSON

Fifteen years ago, N. Y. U arranged football schedules without a worthwhile attraction. If you will look back in the records you find that N. Y. U. played St. Stephens, R. P. I., Rhode Island State, C. C. N. Y., Rochester, Niagara, Conn Aggies, Trinity, Union and Middlebury. The feature games were with Fordham and Columbia but they were not featured in the Polo Grounds.

The N. Y. U. schedules of the middle '20s were about on a par with those that B. U. arranges today. And, in those days, Boston College, Holy Cross and Georgetown were the "money" games on the Fordham football schedule but the gate receipts were banked without an escort of armed guards.

At that time, N. Y. U. wound up its seasons with Columbia and Fordham rang down the curtain annually after playing Georgetown.

But, when N. Y. U. enticed Chick Meehan to leave Syracuse and take Tom Thorpe's berth as head coach of the Violets in 1925, the Columbia Lion assumed a Harvard air and refused to schedule a game the following year.

Although Chick Meehan's first Violet eleven was tied by Columbia and lost to Fordham and Rutgers, N. Y. U. entered football in a big way in 1926 by adding West Virginia Wesleyan, Tulane, Carnegie Tech and Nebraska to its list of attractions.

In '26, the Violets were undefeated until the final game with Nebraska, which was played in a snowstorm at Lincoln.

Then Major Frank W. Cavanaugh quit Boston College to succeed Frank Gargan as head coach at Fordham.

Immediately after "Cav" signed with Fordham, Chick Meehan saw an opportunity for the Violets and the Rams to make a cleanup. Chick is a born promoter and "Cav" was one of the most colorful coaches the game has ever produced.

Between them, "Cav" and Chick developed such a rivalry between N. Y. U. and Fordham the 1929 game drew almost 80,000 cash customers. The Fordham-N. Y. U. game is still one of the feature attractions offered the New York football public and it nets each institution between $40,000 and $50,000 despite the fact the rental for either of the New York ball parks is far in excess of that asked at Fenway Park or National League Field.

"Cav" carried on at Fordham until shortly before he died and the following year Chick Meehan quit N. Y. U. and moved over to Manhattan. But, the Fordham- N. Y. U. classic was so well established by those veteran showmen that the Rams and Violets are still cashing in on their annual grid battle.

Before they started their climb up the football ladder, N. Y U. and Fordham were obliged to "sell" the gridiron game to the New Yorkers, to whom baseball was the only pastime.

If Boston College and Boston University elected to go into football in a big way, they would not meet with any sales resistance such as did Fordham and N. Y. U.

LEAHY BUILDER

New Englanders, particularly Greater Bostonians, are thoroughly sold on football. And they are bemoaning the lack of outstanding attractions offered by any of the local colleges.

Under Frank Leahy, Boston College is building football teams, which, within a few years, should rank with the best in the country, to make the Eagle-Terrier annual game "tops."

All that's needed is for Boston University to keep pace with B. C. The Terriers have a very able coach in "Pat" Hanley. But, even the best carpenters cannot produce without the necessary tools. Hanley knows his football and he has the connections to maneuver Boston University into the national football picture, if the authorities at the university would play ball.

And, it wouldn't require lowering the current scholastic requirements to reach such an objective.

Football at Harvard is at low ebb.

The door is ajar for Boston College and Boston University to steal the local football spotlight.

Get together, Eagles and Terriers.

GARDELLA HARVARD BEST BET

ades with devastating accuracy. Harvard has shown a weakness in this department, that has already yielded victories to Penn, Dartmouth and Princeton.

If they are to beat the Cadets, some way must be found to handcuff Hatch or else hang an antibomb net over the Harvard secondary.

Frontczak is a powerful runner with a dangerous burst of speed. Last year he powered his way through the entire Crimson club to score on a kickoff, and tallied again on a tackle smash from the 30-yard line in a see-saw nightmare that had Harvard leading twice and the Army overtaking them three times.

If almighty Arthur can make the comebacks tomorrow that kept his club in the money last year, the Crimsons would do well not to get ahead, until the last minutes of play.

MACDONALD ILL

Harvard's Capt. Torby Macdonald, the hard luck kid of the Cambridge campus, will probably not see action against the military. Tom Stephenson, publicity director for the Athletic Association, announced that Macdonald has "indigestion, but he will play if Dick Harlow desires him to, or if he is needed."

Obviously Torby is needed, so whether or not he plays depends apparently on Harlow's wishes.

There is only one possible reason that Dick would have for not wishing him to play. The clever mentor may be staking his all on a victory in the final game with Yale. If this is the case he would not want to risk further injuries.

Harvard's Berlin-Rome axis (Charlie Spreyer to Joe Gardella) will have its first fair trial since the post Dartmouth backfield scramble. Spreyer has been working hard on his passing and, while he still tends to lead the receivers too far, the law of averages calls him due for some perfect Saturday shots.

GARDELLA HAS CLASS

"Jiffy Joe" has been waiting all year to show that he is the best running back on the Crimson club, and with the sophomore linemen beginning to catch on to assignments the time is not far off when, with a little more help from the blockers, jumping Guiseppe will dance across the end zone amid gasps and fanfare.

Joe is the most perfectly coordinated player to appear on the river fields in years. With a minimum of help from his mates he is likely to turn in performances that will dim the memory of former greats.

Harvard's starting lineup will probably be le, MacKinney; lt, Miller; lg, Lowry; c, Ayres; rg, Phister; rt, Healey; re, Lovett; qb, Coleman; lhb, Spreyer; rhb, Gardella; fb, Helden.

INDIANA OFF

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 9 (AP)—The Indiana University football squad entrained for New York after Coach Bo McMillin abruptly took his regular backs out of the "doghouse."

ALL OUT OF STEP—But it's fun for the Army grid squad to forget formal marching order and swing along in relaxed fashion for a change. Here are the Cadets finishing their a. m. hike through the Fens.

HANLEY LOSES TWO

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9—Boston University football party arrived here early this morning for their intersectional clash with the University of Cincinnati, tomorrow afternoon.

With a late afternoon workout planned, Coach Pat Hanley was still concerned over the loss of Jim McDonald veteran end and Ray Needham Boston University outstanding center.

Gerry Murphy promising sophomore from Newburyport, will take over for McDonald and Sid Michaels will step into Needham's berth.

"McDonald is one of the smartest ends I have ever coached and he calls all the defensive signals, while Needham has exceeded my fondest expectations at center all season," said Coach Hanley.

Hanley then pointed out that Murphy and Michaels will expose to Cats but that he had nobody beyond them and both boys would have to play 60 minute football.

Polish Club Sends 7 Boys To Hearst Bouts

Entries continued to pour in today for the first tryouts in the 1939 Hearst New England All-America amateur ring tourney, slated Monday night at the Arena.

There were 42 competent glovemen entered up to this morning and with closing time at weighing-in hour Monday evening, it is expected that one of the largest fields ever assembled for a tryout program will compete.

There will be four tryout tourneys sponsored by the Irish-American A. A.—next Monday night, Nov. 20 and 27 and Dec. 4. The winners in each class of the four shows will battle for All-America titles at the Garden on Dec. 11.

The classes Monday night will consist of open divisions at 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and heavyweights, and two novice groups at 126 pounds and 147 pounds.

The Polish A. C. of Bridgewater, coached by Stanley Morris, is sending seven boys for Monday night's tryouts. These are Joe Zenovich and Stanley Stranski, heavyweights; Frankie Smith, light heavyweight; John Malcolm and Ray Bumpus in the 160's; Jack Brown in the 147's, and Wesley Morris, lightweight.

Other entries received were Norman Kenyon, Chester; John Texiera, W. Wareham, and John Gomes, W. Wareham in the 147 open; Larry Pacino, Roxbury; Don Cremens, Cambridge; Joe Banks, Roxbury and Lou Vivolo, Boston, in the 160; Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, in the 175, and Albin Tumas, Dorchester, in the heavyweight open class.

All-America Entry Blank

The following classes will be contested in tryouts in the Hearst All-America boxing show at Arena, Nov. 13, Nov. 20, Nov. 27, Dec. 4.

112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and heavyweight

Conditions Ideal For Coon Hunters

By DARK MONREAL

Massachusetts and New Hampshire coon hunters are in their glory. The season for the palatable ringtails is on in full swing, thanks to Mother Nature, who was a bit lax in making conditions suitable for hunting.

The recent rains and cold weather was just what the doctor orders if one could read the thought that runs through the minds of the hounds that have been running on dry scent prior to last week.

Because of the dry fall the dogs were chasing phantom trails causing many a hunter plenty of consternation. New Hampshire sportsmen are encountering plenty of trouble because of fallen timber due to the hurricane of last fall.

Trees laying in a semi-prone position have made it possible for the older ringtails to drop their scent, giving them plenty of time to "drop the dog" in their flight to safety.

Bud Ronnelle of Stratham, N. H., with his trusty bitch Trixie is high man in his section. He shot out a coon last Saturday night and dressed 25 pounds. In addition, the dogs treed a youngster that Bud took alive which has veteran hunters in a quandary.

The youngster is darker in color than ordinary but color or not, it will make a toothsome meal later in the season.

• • •

The out-of-state deer hunters who have made Maine their stamping grounds, have had more than ordinary good luck to date. Conditions have been ideal in the Pine Tree State and hundreds of "kills" have been reported to headquarters.

The Maine boys will set aside their rifles for the trusty shotgun for three bird and rabbit shooting tomorrow, making it an ideal weekend for the nimrod that likes both bird and big game.

• • •

Boston friends of Roy Tucker of Melrose are waiting word from the Boston insurance man and his party of 11 that are gunning the Moosehead Lake region. Roy, in past years has put on a venison supper on his return from Maine and his bed friends have their fingers crossed on both hands.

• • •

The North Andover Fish and Game Club will hold its Fox Hound Trial scrum at Canobie Lake Fish and Game Club in Salem, N. H., Sunday, and the boys get down to work at the early hour of 8:30 a. m. Dr. Kay is chairman and Charles Murphy master of the hounds.

Maine's season on ducks and geese closes the 14th and on partridges the 15th. The second annual open season on pheasants gets underway in these counties today: Androscoggin, Cumberland, Kennebec, Knox, Lincoln, Sagadahoc, Waldo and Hancock. Shooting commences one-half hour before sunrise Nov. 11, 13, 14 and 15. Only shotguns may be used. The bag limit is two per day per person and not more than four for the five-day season.

INSPIRED B. C. TEAM SET FOR TILT

EN ROUTE TO DETROIT, Nov. 10—After a night of Pullman travel, Head Coach Frank Leahy, his Boston College grid squad of 39 men, and the accompanying entourage of officials, newsmen, and royal rooters this morning were speeding toward Detroit.

The Eagles were due to arrive in the Motor City at noon and, after lunch, were scheduled to hold a short signal drill at the Titans' home stadium.

Just previous to the squad's departure last night the names of Terry Geoghan, Ed Twiss, Ronnie Corbett, George Ryan and Tom Powers were added to the list of those making the western trip. Only sophomore Frank Davis, confined to bed with an infected throat, of the original squad of 40, which reported for practice late in August, remains at home.

The addition of the new quintet will enable Boston College to dress 38 men for the battle. (Lou Kidhardt is making the trip, but his leg injury won't permit his participation.)

STUDENTS PASS HAT

A collection started by sympathetic students, and aided and abetted by officials of the A. A. and interested alumni, was the main factor in bringing about the addition of the five new names.

Some of those lads are clever footballers. Their unexpected good fortune in being selected to make the coveted trip at such a late hour may yet pay off dividends to the interested parties.

It was bedlam at the Newtonville station last night as 500 students gathered to pay homage. A huge pep rally at Alumni Field and a red light parade to the railroad station preceded the sendoff. Immediately following the squad's departure, cars of students left Newton bound for Detroit and the support of the Eagles.

In Detroit Coach Leahy will probably hand Sophomore Frank Maznicki a half dozen fullback plays and watch him work out from the position. With Davis out, Leahy intends to take no chances at the important slot, and will have Maznicki ready in case of an emergency.

Pete Cignetti, as was the case last week against Auburn will start the game, with Butch Kissell on hand for relief duty.

EAGLES EXPECT HARD FIGHT

Boston College expects much from the Titans. The facts that Detroit is coached by Gus Dorais, a past master at the art of gridiron voodoo, that the westerners never did get over the sting of that whirlwind finish which Fella Gintoff and the other Eagles slapped on them for a 9-6 win last season, and that thus far this season they have lost two games which they just as easily might have won, should add up to bother Boston College no end.

Reds Triump Over Eagles, 3-0

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10 (AP)—With their coach, Bun Cook, sick with grippe in a nearby hospital, the Rhode Island Reds blanked the New Haven Eagles 3 to 0 in the second home game of the International-American Hockey League season.

It was the first Providence victory in three games. Without Lesieur, veteran defenceman, directing the play of the Reds as well as taking his regular turn on the ice.

CARDINALS WORK AT FENWAY PARK

Catholic University's mighty football machine arrived early today and hiked to Fenway Park for a short workout.. The undefeated grid gladiators from Washington, D. C., tackle St. Anselm's of Manchester, N. H., at Fenway Park tomorrow.

The Fighting Cardinals expect to win tomorrow. Bergman is supremely confident. When the Fighting Cardinals defeated Detroit 14 to 13 and then took Tulsa 13 to 7 he felt no misgivings about the game with the Hawks.

He expressed himself delighted to show his team and his method of play to Boston football lovers. This is one of only two games to be played in Greater Boston tomorrow.

Boston College men are interested in this game for Catholic University won from Detroit and Detroit is the Eagles opponent today.

With Ray McLean in condition St. Anselms is expected to provide a fine contest.

Eagles Given Top Rating

SEATTLE, Nov. 10 (AP)—Boston College and University of Southern California are the nation's leading offensive and defensive teams, on the basis of figures compiled by the American Football Statistical Bureau.

Boston College has averaged 341.3 yards from rushing and passes per game, while holding six opponents to 85.7 yards on the ground and in the air.

U. S. C., playing tougher schedule, averaged 316.8 yards per game offensively and held its opposition to a 99-yard average.

Exeter-Andover 59th Clash Tops Grade-A School Card

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

With Armistice Day schedules running into the usual Saturday afternoon football programs, schoolboy fans will be treated to a spicy daily double tomorrow as the grid teams swing into action in all corners of New England.

There'll be everything on the card, from traditional meetings to intersectional battles.

The outstanding battle will be at Exeter, N. H., where the prep school faces Andover in a rivalry that establishes a record for duration. Since 1877 the elevens of the two institutions have met 58 times on the gridiron.

Over the years, the Bay Staters boast an edge of three decisions, but this margin is due to be whittled down a notch by a powerful Exeter club, a slight favorite through virtue of its undefeated record in six starts.

Andover, after an early season upset, has come along fast in the later stages, and stands a fair chance of again turning the tables on the favorites. Harvard frosh applied the only blemish on the Andover record, the same team that gave Exeter its biggest scare of the campaign.

N. Y. TEAM PLAYS QUINCY

For an intersectional battle, school followers will have the Quincy high-Lawrence, Long Island tilt for variety. Last year the New Yorkers applied a 13-0 blanking to the Granite City crew, but it wouldn't be surprising to see Coach McLean's boys reverse the decision at the Quincy Stadium.

For a championship struggle, Manchester Central will provide the thrills when Brockton invades New Hampshire for a game between two undefeated forces. Brockton, leader in the title race, gains the sentimental edge.

Last week, the Shoe City club gained another rung in its climb to the pennant with Bernie Lanoue sparking the way but will find the Central group a bit tougher than the Salem Witches. Coach Hubie McDonough's eleven spanked Everett out of the unbeaten class and may continue its undefeated, untied and unscored upon record at the expense of Coach Charlie Holden .

ARLINGTON AT SOMERVILLE

For a very bitter battle, Dilboy Field provides the setting with the invasion of Arlington to pull down Somerville's rising chest. Both teams staged grand comebacks last week and both hope to continue their regained stride with plenty of fireworks promised in the meeting.

Lynn English-Salem game looks like a very interesting struggle, the Lynn boys are due to break out of a slump any afternoon now.

For winning consistency, there's nothing better to offer than the Saugus streak going into Marblehead and the Wellesley flame extending over Winchester.

For a league championship, Malden Catholic and St. Mary's of Waltham will probably settle the Catholic circuit title in their game at Malden. The home club will be a slight favorite to ruin the unbeaten, untied and unscored upon record of its rival while maintaining its own.

LAWRENCE PLAYS HAVERHILL

Then there's a Malden club hoping for a comeback against Worcester South; Lowell moving into Nashua, N. H.; Everett looking for a comparative soft touch at Lynn Classical; Medford's crippled crew hoping to continue undefeated at Waltham; Lawrence trying to keep pace with Brockton at Haverhill.

Pittsburgh Buys Tapin From Ramblers

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Hornets of the International-American Hockey League announced the purchase of Babe Tapin, 23-year-old left wing, from the Philadelphia Ramblers.

Tapin reports today and is expected to give the Hornets added offensive strength in the game Saturday night with Indianapolis' Capitols, newest member of the league.

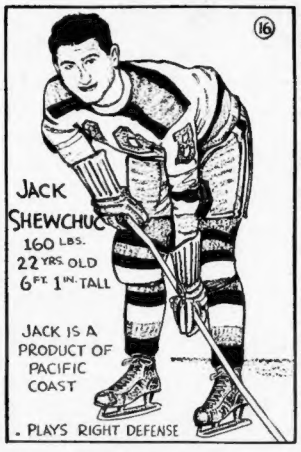
DAILY RECORD EVENING AMERICAN BOSTON MASS

BRUINS CARTOON HOCKEY CONTEST



THERE WILL BE 24 CARTOONS IN ALL. CARTOONS WILL ALTERNATE, APPEARING IN THE DAILY RECORD AND EVENING AMERICAN.

(Should you miss a hockey cartoon, back copies can be obtained at the Boston Record-American circulation department by mail or in person for five cents.)

RULES: First find the three mistakes appearing in cartoon and fill in on blank.

Contestants must hold each entry and submit them all at once at the conclusion of the contest.

Names and addresses must accompany all entries.

Contest will CLOSE NOV. 17. All entries must be in by midnight of that date.

IN THE EVENT OF A TIE THE WINNERS WILL BE JUDGED BY THE COMPLETENESS OF THE ANSWERS AND NEATNESS.

Contest is open to all with the exception of employes of the Boston Daily Record-Evening American and their relatives.

THE DECISIONS OF THE JUDGES ARE FINAL.

You can win more than $400 in season and individual game tickets for the Bruins' home hockey games merely by finding the three mistakes made in the above cartoon:

Huskies Windup With Upsala

The Vikings boasting of a 200-pound line and good backs in Johnny Becker, Tom Stanley, Bill Venner and Bob Lennon, will be a slight favorite to whip the Huskies.

Coached by Paul Woerner, an old Navy star, Upsala uses a single wingback offense and depends largely on power which it really has.

Northeastern, on the other hand, will try to upset the apple cart with deception and plenty of passing. In fact it was through the air that the Huskies downed the Vikings 13 to 0 last year.

Upsala has proven that it is still vulnerable on pass defense this year. Against Boston University last month, the Terriers completed a pair of aerial shots for scores to win 13 to 3.

So, the chances are that there will be plenty of chucking when Northeastern is in possession tomorrow.

PIN MILLS SHOULDERS

HARTFORD, Ct., Nov. 10 (AP)—Marvin Westenberg, 230, of Tacome, Wash., defeated "Lord" Albert Mills, 240, of London, in a professional wrestling exhibition here. Mills substituted for Gus Sonnenberg.
